Greeks Halt Castle Battle

NICOSIA (AP) — The Greek-Cypriot command ordered a cease-fire Wednesday in the mountain fighting for St. Hilarion Castle. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant followed up with an urgent appeal to both Greek and Turkish-Cypriots to renounce force in the Cyprus conflict.

With the Turks still in possession of the castle, a Turkish spokesman said the Greek cease-fire order sounded "like another Greek trick... we are suspicious of the peace."

Thant said the fighting for the lofty medieval castle in northern Cyprus had stopped and that the UN force on the eastern Mediterranean island would use all means short of bullets to keep it stopped.

Apparently answering criticism of failure of the UN force to intervene in the fighting, Thant said:

"It would be incongruous, even a little insane, for that force to set about killing Cypriots, whether Greek or Turkish, to prevent them from killing each other."

He sent UN commander, Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani, a comprehensive program to restore

250 Die In Sinking

DACCA (Reuters) — At least 250 persons were reported drowned when a motor vessel sank Wednesday night near Chandpur, East Pakistan, about 30 miles from here. The vessel was on its way to Chandpur from Dacca. The casualty toll was not immediately confirmed.

Soviet Major-General, Too

Spy Costs Sweden $56,000,000

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden Wednesday estimated it will cost $56,000,000 to reorganize its defence because of the damage done by confessed Soviet spy Sbg Wennerstrom.

The government said it has initially decided to ask next year's Riksdag (parliament) for $10,000,000 to begin the work, expected to be finished by 1970 or 1971.

The communique said besides reorganizing the defence setup changes were planned in purchases of war materials already decided upon.

The communique came as a parliamentary report on Wennerstrom's activities disclosed the Swedish air force colonel claimed to have been made a Soviet major-general for his espionage activities.

$1,182,000 Loot In Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Latest reports indicate the loot in the Montreal March 31 mail truck robbery was $1,182,000.

Police say they now know there was $800,000 in cash and $382,000 in bonds in the bags.

Seven armed men stopped a truck, forced employees into another truck, and drove off with the mail truck.

Police have made no arrests.

Mid-Summer Start

ALL B.C. CARS FACING TESTS

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch is aiming at a midsummer target date for introduction of compulsory vehicle testing throughout the province.

Deputy motor vehicle superintendent Ray Hadfield said yesterday that plans to launch a mobile testing system in the province are in an advanced stage.

MVB officials are currently studying mobile equipment and procedures used by Ontario.

ONE DEPARTURE

Mr. Hadfield said there will be one important departure from Ontario practice in putting mobile testing to work in B.C.

This is that testing won't be voluntary.

Provision is already made in the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act for compulsory testing, Mr. Hadfield said.

FOREWARNED

Police in communities throughout the province will be forewarned of the visit of the mobile unit and will issue motorists with written instructions to have their vehicles tested.

Where defects are found, they will have to be repaired and rechecked.

MANY YEARS

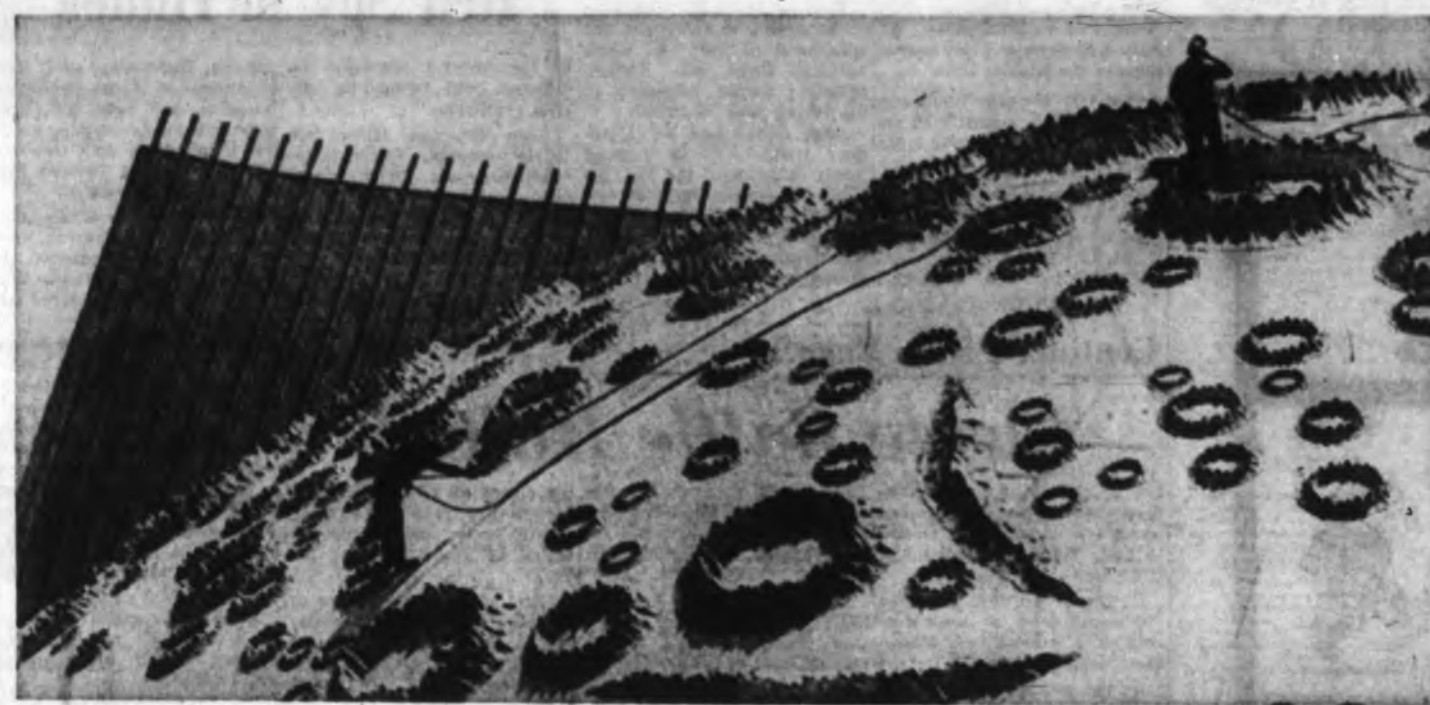

Compulsory vehicle inspection currently is practiced only in Vancouver where a municipal testing bureau has been in operation for many years.

The B.C. mobile unit will be equipped to test brakes, wheel alignment and lights.

Dissuaded?

Government spokesman denied last night Montreal Gazette report that Health Minister Judy LaMarsh had resigned recently but had been talked out of it by Prime Minister Pearson. Miss LaMarsh is in hospital with back ailment.

Embassy Staff at Work

Newsman-Spy Still in Hiding

OTTAWA (CP) — Vasily Tarasov, Russian government journalist-spy under orders to leave Canada, remained cloistered Wednesday in the Soviet Embassy here while travel arrangements were made for his departure.

The 35-year-old reporter for Izvestia, the official organ of the Russian government, had his visa cancelled Tuesday afternoon and was given 72 hours to get out of the country after he had been caught in an RCMP trap Monday evening.

Meanwhile, Russian embassy staff moved packing boxes out of the sparsely-furnished Tarasov apartment, where he had lived with his wife and six-year-old daughter since coming to Canada a year ago.

It appeared they would either accompany him or follow him immediately back to Moscow, probably travelling via Montreal and Paris or Copenhagen.

Tarasov was caught by the Mounties Monday evening with an incriminating batch of documents. He obtained them after offering a civil servant a bribe.

The civil servant some time ago had become suspicious of the reason for Tarasov's warm hospitality and had tipped the RCMP.

They co-operated in setting the trap. The identity of the civil servant was not disclosed.

Most uncollected refuse piled up in alleys and backyards, but some citizens had novel notions.

George McCrellan, commissioner of the RCMP, described the case as "one of the most serious in the history of the force."

Peterson May Step In In Vancouver Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor Minister Peterson indicated late last night he may step in and attempt to settle Vancouver's so-called "garbage" strike if there is no sign of a break soon.

A number of others made a quick stop on Lions Gate Bridge and heaved their bags into Vancouver harbor.

Wednesday it became clear the striking workers were adamant. They overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that they dispute with the city be put to binding arbitration. A union official said the secret ballot vote showed only 13 of a total of more than 800 votes in favor of accepting arbitration.

City council suggested an alternative of the appointment of an industrial inquiry commission.

Garbage collectors, park employees, street cleaners, and various sewer, water, mechanical and electrical crews are asking at least 12 cents an hour more than their existing rate of $2.08.

The city has offered the same three-per-cent increase won earlier by inside workers.

Chinese Revive Border Charges

The paper condemned the Soviet authorities for "surreptitious and subversive activities" against Sinkiang, the vast autonomous region in China's far west bordering Soviet central Asian republics.

Reporting a recent session of the regional people's congress in the Sinkiang capital of Urumchi, it repeated charges that in the past few years, the authorities of the Soviet Union "enticed and coerced tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into the Soviet Union and created trouble on the border."

The paper also charged that Russian authorities used press and radio in areas adjacent to Sinkiang to "spread lies and slanders attacking the Chinese Communist party leadership and to distort the history of Sinkiang in an attempt to undermine the unity of Chinese peoples of various nationalities."

Minority Peoples

Peking Fete Snubbed By Soviets

TOKYO (UPI) — The Soviet Union has declined Communist China's invitation to this year's May Day celebrations, Radio Peking said today.

The Communist Chinese broadcast, heard here, said the Soviet Union at the same time withdrew its May Day invitation sent to Red China on April 7.

The All-China Federation of Trade Unions subsequently on April 25 sent a cable to the Soviet Workers Council protesting the Soviet action.

Cyprus

Canada Urges UN To Protect Turks

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Wednesday Canada has told the United Nations the Cyprus peace-keeping force should take responsibility for protecting Turkish Cypriots on the island.

New Democrat Leader Douglas asked Mr. Martin whether Canada shared the view that because the UN force deprives the Turkish Cypriots of any outside help, therefore the UN should take responsibility for protecting them.

Mr. Martin declined to go into details but said Canadian representations to the UN were "along the lines" Mr. Douglas suggested.

The external affairs minister said he discussed the crisis this morning with U.S. Under-Secretary of State George Ball, who is in Ottawa attending the U.S.-Canadian ministerial meeting on trade and economic affairs.

They co-operated in setting the trap.

The identity of the civil servant was not disclosed.

$40,000 to Millionaire To Improve the Breed

TORONTO (CP) — A New Democratic member of the legislature learned Wednesday that the government has made grants of almost $40,000 to sportman-industrialist E. P. Taylor during the last two years to encourage thoroughbred horse breeding.

In reply to a question by Ken Bryden (NDP—Woodbine), the government tabled in the legislature a list of the names of all those breeders who had received grants of more than $1,000 during 1963-63 and 1963-64. The matter came up in the house March 5, during consideration of the estimated expenditures for 1964-65 of the provincial treasurer's department. The estimates included $70,000 for grants to members of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society in Ontario.

Provincial Treasurer Allan

said the government makes grants to Ontario breeders on the basis of five per cent of the purses won on Ontario tracks by horses bred by them. The money did not go to the owners.

Last year 180 breeders benefited from the grants, Mr. Allan said. Most of these were not wealthy persons, but "small people."

In the tabled list was an amount of $18,950 awarded Mr. Taylor for the year ended March 31, 1963 and $20,906 for the year ended March 31, 1964.

In a statement issued outside of the legislature, Mr. Bryden said the list showed that the grants were "really little more than a system of welfare allowances for rich men."

The grants should be either discontinued or the method of distribution should be completely overhauled, he said.

Cuban Refugees

Three Nations' Boats First 'Home' for Baby

MIAMI (UPI)—The British Navy and U.S. Coast Guard pooled their nautical and post-natal skills Wednesday to save the lives of nine Cuban refugees, one of them an eight-hour-old girl who was born in a leaky 18-foot boat.

Five Cuban men, a 10-year-old girl and her infant sister were transferred at sea from the British frigate HMS Tartar to two 40-foot Coast Guard patrol boats in choppy seas about three miles off Miami Beach.

Newsmen watched from a third patrol boat as Mrs. Andres Mejias was lashed to a litter basket and tenderly lowered by block and tackle into the bouncing patrol boat.

Then her infant daughter, delivered about 10:30 a.m. by her husband in the crowded boat they used to flee Cuba, was lowered in a makeshift bassinet covered with canvas to protect her from the sea spray.

The father, a mechanic from Mayari, Oriente, who said he and his wife planned the escape "for about a year," followed his 10-year-old daughter Marta over the side, lowered in a halter.

The others in the party were put aboard the second patrol boat and also brought into the Miami Beach Coast Guard base.

The baby's nationality remains to be determined. She apparently was born in international waters.

The Cubans were picked up by the Tartar 13 miles southeast of Marathon in the Florida Keys shortly before noon.

World Premiere

Churchill Skips Film Of His 'Finest Hours'

LONDON (UPI)—About the only celebrity missing Wednesday night from the packed house which viewed the world premiere of The Finest Hours, the movie story of Winston Churchill, was the 89-year-old former prime minister himself. Churchill remained at his London home, while his wife, Lady Churchill attended the show at the Royal Festival Hall on the banks of the River Thames.

Prince Philip sat next to Lady Churchill, while close by sat Lord Avon—former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden who succeeded Churchill after serving under him in the wartime government.

$28,000 RAISED

The premiere showing raised $28,000 in aid of the English Speaking Union's scholarship and travel grant program.

The wartime atmosphere of the movie was captured nostalgically for the audience before the movie by a guards band playing such tunes as Roll Out the Barrel, Run Rabbit Run, Bless 'Em All, and Lili Marlene.

Police Grab 76 in South

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Police arrested 76 racial demonstrators in front of a segregated Nashville restaurant Wednesday, shortly after the firm obtained a temporary injunction against interfering with its business. About 30 juveniles were among those arrested.

It was the third day of civil rights demonstrations this week, led by Negroes but including a sprinkling of white men and the Barrel, Run Rabbit Run, Bless 'Em All, and Lili Marlene.

'Driven to Death by Neglect'

WELLS, B.C. (CP)—"Old Gus" Kovlaski was "driven to death by neglect," says Coroner J. T. McKelvie.

Denied workman's compensation and too sick with a painful back ailment to work, the 60-year-old man held a package of dynamite against his chest Monday and exploded himself to death.

The coroner said he plans to find out why it is that injured workers are sent back to their jobs, only to develop chronic ailments, and why they aren't given compensation.

"I'm probably going to get my neck in a sling, but I plan to get the answers," said the coroner.

Gustave Theodore Kovlaski left a note behind after taking his own life. It said: "I'm sorry I have to do this but I'm too sick."

The coroner said Kovlaski was hit by a falling timber in the Cariboo Gold Quartz mine here last August, and after six days in hospital was told he could go back to work.

Within a few weeks the pain was so bad he was forced to quit. He applied for compensation without success.

He had only $600 from a group insurance plan and most of that went to pay debts to friends who helped him get by when he was off work.

The coroner said Kovlaski was a quiet, friendly bachelor who loved to stop and talk to children and buy them candy.

Woman Stabbed

New Murder Spurs Police

LONDON (UPI)—Police Wednesday launched an intensive hunt for the killer of 32-year-old Sylvia Maia Bull, found with a foot-long dagger plunged in her heart—the fifth woman slain in as many months.

The pretty blonde-haired woman was discovered lying in front of her turned-on television set in the colored section of Slough, 25 miles from London.

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined immediate comment on whether detectives believed the slaying was connected with the strangling of four London prostitutes since November, all of whose nude or semi-clothed bodies were found along a four-mile stretch of the River Thames.

He said the Yard had not been called in on the Slough case yet, but indicated details of the crime were known to the crack team of homicide detectives searching for a 20th Century "Jack the Ripper."

Slough police issued a description of a man identified as Kenneth Howard, a well-built West Indian who was a former friend of Miss Bull. They said they think Howard may be able to help them in the investigation.

In London, Scotland Yard's switchboard was jammed by calls from terrified prostitutes in response to an appeal for any information concerning the discovery Friday of the body of 22-year-old convent-educated stripper Helen (Teddy) Barthelmy's naked body on a garbage heap

Mass Grave In Warsaw

WARSAW (AP)—A mass grave with an estimated 10,000 victims of Nazi terror has been discovered at Okopowa Street in Warsaw, the newspaper Ekspres Wlaczorny reported Wednesday. The paper said most of the executions had taken place in 1943 and the victims were mainly Jews from the ghetto.

Trade with 'Despised' South Africa Increased by 300 Per Cent

Red China Hypocrisy Revealed

By EDWARD NEILAN
From Hong Kong

Communist China is showing two faces in its relations with Africa. One face smiles toward the nationalists of the African continent. This face condemns the "colonial" regime of the Republic of South Africa for its apartheid policies. To demonstrate this "sincerity" Peking have several times announced that it has broken off trade with South Africa.

Because of the recent virtual desertion of China by the Soviet Union, Peking has had to turn to nations which would offer the best prices or the best credit terms. The Republic of South Africa is one such nation. Red China has ignored her own pledges and professions of support for the efforts of Africans to end South Africa's apartheid policies. Trade with South Africa has continued on a profitable basis for several years. The policy of "two faces" to Africa is continuing as Peking employs the device of using private commercial firms in different parts of the world to trade with the Republic of South Africa.

Peking seemed to have convinced other African nations that its trade with South Africa was cut off in 1961. As a result, a number of economic and technical agreements were negotiated with African countries in 1961 and 1962. Chinese cultural delegations visited the African continent and an increasing number of Africans leaders and delegations made trips to China.

The trade issue loomed large, however, when the Republic of South Africa published its official trade figures for 1962, showing that sales to Red China had totalled almost $1,500,000 and purchases had amounted to about $1,200,000. The figures had a disturbing effect on other African nations.

On July 15, 1963, Communist New China News Agency reported "The People's Republic of China will in the future continue to have no economic and trade ties, direct or indirect, with South Africa." This all-embracing declaration struck a responsive chord and in the same month, the New China News Agency reported from Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika, that Duma Nkwe, secretary-general of the African National Congress, had praised the Chinese announcement as a "positive contribution" to his movement.

Peking was once again presenting the good image—but not for long. In August of last year, the Die Burger, government newspaper of the Republic of South Africa, reported that trade with China had increased despite the official trade boycott. Confirmation came when official figures for the first eight months of the year were released showing a 400 per cent increase in exports from South Africa to Red China and a 300 per cent increase in imports from Peking.

UN Troops Powerless

Cyprus Drifts To Disaster

By Colonist Special Correspondent EDWIN ROTH, from Nicosia, Cyprus

Machine-gun fire rattles through the Cyprus capital, Nicosia. Two—three—now four machine-guns. Between them the cracking of many rifle shots. At the Ledre Palace Hotel, headquarters of the UN, the British forces and the foreign correspondents, everybody listens for the direction of the shooting.

"Where is it?"

"Seems to be only in Trakhanas."

As long as the shooting is only in Trakhanas, nobody gets too excited about it. Trakhanas is Nicosia's northern district on the way to the coastal town, Kyrenia, five minutes by car from the Ledre Palace Hotel. (Only three minutes if you drive fast.)

Just north of Trakhanas, soldiers of the Turkish army and Turkish Cypriots occupy the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway, and refuse to let Greek Cypriots pass.

In Trakhanas, Greek and Turkish Cypriots face each other in large fortifications—behind enormous earth walls, in sandbags—surrounded machinegun positions, in trenches, in fortified houses.

Ever since Christmas, these fortifications have been increased and improved. Between them are the British and Canadian UN troops with their sky-blue berets, their radios, and their sky-blue UN flags which don't show Cyprus on their globe.

Out of national pride and to prove that they are still there, the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot civil war soldiers in Trakhanas think it necessary to shoot from good cover towards the other side's fortifications.

This is civil war by trench warfare—with the UN troops and newsmen also taking cover.

As long as the Greek Cypriots don't try to storm the Turkish Cypriot fortifications in a Turkish Cypriot attack on the Greek Cypriot fortifications would be hopeless! the shooting in Trakhanas is not too serious, and belongs to Nicosia's grotesquely abnormal normality.

Much more serious is the shooting on other parts of the frontier between the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot areas of Nicosia—especially around the Ledre Palace Hotel, which stands exactly on the frontier between the prosperous new Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot districts.

The hotel drive, guarded by British UN troops, is the frontier—with armed Greek Cypriots on one side, armed Turkish Cypriots on the other. Here, more and more machinegun positions have been built recently and surrounded by sandbags.

MAKARIOS

HQ in the Middle

Indian army General Prem Singh Gyani, the handsome 53-year-old Sikh who commands all the UN forces in Cyprus, hates the thought that in any big battle for Nicosia, his headquarters would be exactly between the two front lines.

For days, General Gyani negotiated with the Greek and Turkish Cypriots whether and to what extent both sides' fortifications around the Ledre Palace Hotel could be removed.

Archbishop Makarios appeared personally before the hotel to request his "forces of law and order" to take down a machinegun position which General Gyani disliked.

But far more important than machinegun positions and fortifications are the civil war soldiers' national pride and personal ego. A machinegun position outside the Ledre Palace Hotel becomes a symbol of Greek civilization, another one across the road a symbol of the Turkish nation and Kemal Ataturk's glory.

Archbishop Makarios has offered to dismantle all Greek Cypriot fortifications in Cyprus under UN supervision, if the "though" this would be very suitable. (For reasons of mobility and news transmission, we foreign correspondents would not be enthusiastic about it.)

Most important of all is the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway, which is occupied by soldiers of the Turkish army and by armed Turkish Cypriots. Since Christmas, no Greek Cypriot has been allowed to pass it.

Recently, Greek Cypriots have succeeded in occupying some of the mountains through which this highway runs—most are still held by the Turks—so that now there is much shooting between the mountains.

Complete Deadlock

The Finnish mediator Sakari Tuomioja flies around between Athens, Ankara and Nicosia, reporting complete deadlock. Each new week of civil war increases the danger of Archbishop Makarios being forcibly replaced by radical armed Greek-Cypriot elements and the danger of a Turkish-Greek war, which neither Greece nor Turkey wants.

Today the gravest danger is that desperate Turkish Cypriots might try to provoke a big battle which would cause Turkish intervention.

Their attitude is the same as that of the French Algerians during the last days of French rule in Algeria after President de Gaulle had ended the Algerian war, when they tried desperately (and in vain) to provoke the Arabs into actions which would force the French army to intervene.

Recent Cyprus battles were usually started or at least provoked by the Turkish Cypriots. But the Greek Cypriots, especially in Nicosia, are becoming more angry every day about being debarraded from Kyrenia, their lovely coastal resort. Their fury grows with the increasing heat.

If the UN formally ordered the Turks to let the Greeks pass the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway, and the Turks refused, the Greeks would have formal justification for military conquest of the highway. They could do it very quickly if Turkey did not intervene—and Turkey's military intervention is the Turkish Cypriots' desperate last hope.

To justify their fortifications and their occupation of the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway, the Turks quote the fact that everything done by Archbishop Makarios and his government since Christmas has been unconstitutional, as it did not have Turkish-Cypriot agreement.

Against that, the Greek Cypriots claim that a constitution with a built-in absolute veto of an 18 per cent minority, imposed by the British colonial power as a condition for freedom, cannot be valid.

Japan Aids Sukarno

By KIP COOPER
from Tokyo

Japan has decided to increase economic aid to Indonesia. Later this year Japan will make available long-term, low-interest loans to Indonesia for the first time. Until now Japan has made such loans only to India and Pakistan.

The decision to increase economic aid to the faltering Indonesian economy runs counter to a recent cutback of U.S. aid to Indonesia. U.S. aid, which totalled $87,000,000 in 1962, now is only $12,000,000 a year. The reduction was ordered last fall after Indonesia began her policy of confrontation against newly-formed Malaysia.

Indonesia has already received considerable Japanese aid and private investments. Last year the Japanese government paid the former Dutch colony $15,500,000 for war reparations.

In addition to cash, the Japanese also supplied farm machinery for the cultivation of rice and cotton, and vehicles and technical assistance for the development of an asphalt industry.

Five Japanese companies are pledged to help Indonesia grow more sugar. The companies expect to be repaid with 450,000 tons of sugar a year, or half the planned output.

Other Japanese companies have made similar long-term investments in developing Indonesian oil fields, building docks and constructing dams. The Japanese government is also underwriting a $30,000,000 program to develop long-neglected timber resources on Indonesian Borneo (Kalimantan).

Quotes!

I hold the view that any body who thinks that Britain should not be a nuclear power must be crackers — indeed, absolutely crackers. — Field Marshal Lord Montgomery.

I won't go at the independence question like a bull at the gate — and suddenly run the flag up one morning. — Ian Smith, prime minister of Southern Rhodesia.

Roman Touch Here?

Centennial Square may have, yesterday the thousands of a touch of Rome in it next spring.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, just back from a vacation in Europe and North Africa, told city council small way, but we could have a similar display each spring on the steps of our own Centennial Square," he said.

The three most beautiful cities he visited were Athens, Rome and Lisbon, the mayor said. All made a feature of boulevard trees.

"There's no doubt that trees on downtown streets can make beautiful buildings more beautiful and at the same time help hide from view ugly buildings," Mayor Wilson said.

City Still Planning, But— Private Capital Flows Into Bastion Square

Sweden Boosts UN Contingent

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Eighty-eight Swedish soldiers will fly from the Congo to Cyprus to join the United Nations peace-keeping force there, the Swedish defence headquarters said.

Sweden will increase its Cyprus contingent to 1,000 from 700 men.

Private capital is being attracted to Bastion Square even before city hall has completed plans for its re-development scheme.

Contractor Cliff Clarke has begun remodelling the ground floor of 508 Bastion into a period restaurant which is scheduled to open its doors this summer.

The city has agreed to turn the old courthouse over to the B.C. Maritime Museum next year and will landscape the present black-topped parking area.

It delivers
60 seconds.

In the next day or so, you may learn something new about the taste of rye whisky. The message takes one minute. And no more than one taste of a whisky called Time. A gentle whisky. The taste is light, warm, smooth.

You will find you have never known a whisky with a taste like this.

You will find yourself comparing it with the whisky you usually buy. And you may find yourself changing your mind about whiskies.

The whisky in the hourglass bottle does that. The message comes through. Not loud. But clear. 60 seconds. Time enough.

Let's start at the bottom, with the Volvo 544. You're right. It looks like a '48 Ford. We've spent 22 years perfecting the 544 compact and we hesitate to tamper with it for the sake of style because people who buy it like it the way it is.

Here's why: The 544 out-accelerates other popular-priced compacts in every speed range, gets over 30 miles to the gallon like the little economy cars, is virtually indestructible and proves it at trade-in time.

The car on top is the Volvo Canadian. It does everything the 544 does. It's prettier, costs a little more and is now available with automatic transmission. But that's the only difference.

The main thing is there's a Volvo—built right here in Canada—for everybody who wants a tough, fast, economical car.

Volvo prices start at $2826* complete. All the etceteras (have you priced etceteras lately?) come as standard equipment. Even the whitewalls.

250 Student Soldiers Going to Camp

Two hundred and fifty teenage militiamen in B.C. have been picked to attend the Young Soldiers' Training Plan at Albert Head from July 19 to Aug. 22 this year.

All are high school students aged 16 and up and must have their parents' consent and the recommendation of their commanding officer.

"They are chosen by competition in their own units and the competition is keen because we have facilities for only 250 out of 1,100 young soldiers in B.C.," Maj. Murray Edwards, 289 Anson, said last night.

Maj. Edwards, permanent staff officer of 25 Militia Group, will command the Albert Head camp this summer. Chief instructor will be Capt. J. R. MacLean, 945 Cien, officer commanding Victoria detachment, B.C. area instructional staff.

All phases of military training will be given as well as a program of sports and recreation. Qualification to Canadian Red Cross standards in swimming and first aid can be obtained.

Students will be paid for the rank held in the militia and a training bonus of $40 will be paid to each successful trainee.

CCF Rule Saw Many 'Firsts'

REGINA (CP) — Pioneering legislation has been put on the statute books by the CCF government that ruled Saskatchewan for the last 20 years.

The CCF brought in the first hospital and medical care insurance plans and the first Bill of Rights in Canada.

SET PACE
Labor legislation, especially in setting minimum wages and allowing civil servants to have bargaining rights, set the pace for the other provinces. Social welfare measures have been comprehensive.

The socialist administration established Crown corporations more extensively than other provincial governments, not always with success.

It claims credit for a tremendous extension of roads and highways, rural electrification and telephone communications.

RECORD YEAR
While the CCF was in power, the economy of Saskatchewan progressed from the point where it was almost entirely agricultural to the point where the value of non-agricultural production topped agriculture even in 1963, a record agricultural year.

Mather Speaks Tuesday

A New Democratic member of Parliament and well-known newspaperman will speak in Regina Tuesday.

Barry Mather, 33, member for New Westminster and for many years a humor columnist in the Vancouver Sun, will speak at a public meeting called by the Lower House committee of the New Democratic Party. The public is welcome.

Mr. Mather, who quit smoking 11 years ago, is also well known as a campaigner against the habit.

His wife, Camille, was an NDP member of the provincial legislature for Delta from 1960 to 1963.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Union Centre, 2750 Quadra.

Copter Crash Kills Six

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Six persons were killed Wednesday when a U.S. Army helicopter crashed while on a training flight at Fort Campbell.

The public information office said the craft carried two crew members and four passengers.

The non-agricultural sector of the economy is a mixture of private enterprise, Crown enterprise and co-operatives. The government lends support to all parts of this "mixed economy."

NEXT GOVERNMENT
Liberals captured 33 of 59 seats in last week's general election on the basis of election night returns and likely will form the next government if there are no major changes in the party standings when the results become official. CCF captured 25 seats and Conservatives got one.

The CCF was born in Saskatchewan in the drought and depression-ridden 1930s, drawing together labor and agriculture protest movements.

STATED GOALS
In 1933, 11 years before it came to power, it stated its goals in the famous Regina Manifesto, the most oft-quoted portion of which reads:

"No CCF government will rest contentedly until it has eradicated capitalism and put into operation the full program of socialized planning which will lead to the establishment of the co-operative commonwealth."

GOALS CHANGED
In the years since then, the party has moved away from that uncompromising position as economic and other conditions have changed.

Former CCF premier T. C. Douglas, now national New Democratic Party leader, said in a 1960 interview that "practical experience and changing economic conditions have proved wrong many of the techniques of socialism in 1944."

SIMILAR SCHEMES
The compulsory comprehensive Saskatchewan hospital insurance scheme was implemented in 1947. Other provinces since have brought in similar schemes.

The medical care insurance plan, also compulsory and comprehensive, was the first of its kind in North America when it was put into operation in July, 1962, over bitter opposition from doctors. Doctors boycotted the plan by withdrawing normal medical services until some changes were made in it. Doctors said it was "state medicine."

The Saskatchewan Bill of Rights went into effect in 1947.

BARGAINING RIGHTS
Saskatchewan civil servants still are the only ones in Canada with collective bargaining rights and minimum wages are among the top.

The province is the only one with a compulsory, government-run automobile insurance scheme and a government air-ambulance service.

BECK PLANT
In the Crown corporations field, the giant Saskatchewan Power Corporation and Saskatchewan Government Telephones and sodium sulphate mines, a printing company, brick plant, lumber and fur marketing boards, government airline, bus transportation company, insurance company and guarantee and fidelity company are in operation. All but two made profits last year.

SOME VENTURES FAILED
But a government housing corporation went out of business in 1947 after a short life; a Crown tannery and a shoe factory folded up in 1948; a woolen mill shut down in 1951; a box factory closed in 1957; and a paint company and fish filleting operation stayed in business only short periods.

The CCF during the years extended programs designed to attract private industry to the province. In 1962 it set up the Saskatchewan Economic Development Corporation for this purpose. Co-operatives have been given aid and encouragement by the co-operatives department of the government.

Diluted Bill in House

TORONTO (UPI) — Ontario's a brief period as the "police" controversial anti-crime legislation, which earlier this year Legal Bills Committee with its most contentious section deleted a new section added.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart—appointed last month following the resignation of Fredrick Cass, who introduced the province.

Junk Dealer Buys Trip to Eternity

SEOUL (AP)—A group of Korean children found a metal object in the ground near Waegman. They summoned a scrap dealer who expressed interest in buying it. As he turned it over in his hands it exploded, killing eight persons, including the children. It was an anti-tank mine.

Shamrocks Muff Chance With Inglorious Effort

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria Shamrocks were beaten, 8-6, by Nanaimo last night, and if they'd planned it for weeks they couldn't have picked a poorer time to look bad.

Here they were with 2,384 fans at Memorial Arena, out to see a look at the new edition of the Shamrocks. Here they were playing the team that is a unanimous choice for last place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, a golden opportunity to look good and perhaps convince some of those new fans they should return.

And they blew it—not because Nanaimo has come up with a better lacrosse team, but because too many Shamrocks simply didn't try.

There was only one difference between the clubs. Nanaimo never quit running, and they got absolute minimum production.

It was 3-2 at the quarter and 3-3 at the half, although Shamrocks had the extra man for most of the second quarter as Nanaimo's Larry Clarkson drew a 10-minute time penalty for using his stick in a fight with Shamrock rookie Bill Spotswood.

Shamrocks went ahead twice in the third quarter, and there was never more than one goal between the clubs until Shires scored at 11:25 and 12:50. Goalie Barry Forbes, who was often brilliant for Shamrocks, swears the first one hit the side of the net rather than going in, but it counted and Shires' goals were the last the fans were to see.

They did see a couple of dandy fights, between Spotswood and Clarkson and Don Ashbee and Clarkson, but they never saw a Shamrock team that looked like a winner.

JUST ONE WAY
Rookie Bill Munroe scored twice for Shamrocks, but was getting left behind on defence. Ed Kowalyk, Ron Jay, Ray Beech and Reg Foster got the others.

Terry Davis got two goals for Nanaimo, and was robbed by Forbes on one clean breakaway and missed on two others in perhaps the most frustrating night he has had in this league. Ray and Larry Biggs handled the other Nanaimo scoring, and Alf Shuker was solid in goal.

HOPE HERE
Yes, Shamrocks are a much better lacrosse club. Spotswood and Beech are going to help on defence and the Dillons, Ranjit and Nirmal, have to be the two fastest men in the league.

But before they start winning, as coach Don Ashbee was saying last night, they have to start remembering that this is a two-way game. It does no good to score 40 goals if you let in 80.

When the defence gets set with the return of Barry Ashbee, Billy Gray and Jack Showers, the Rocks should be set for third place. But only if they try—all the time.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Not all hockey fans could be expected to agree completely with the view expressed here last week that Gordie Howe is the greatest player in the history of hockey. But one would certainly have to presume that those who can see well enough to have watched him play or are able to read his lengthy list of accomplishments would, at the very least, have to agree that he must be quite close to the rating accorded him.

Not so one reader, who obviously harbored a violent dislike for Howe for more than a decade after watching Howe make what he says was a deliberate attempt to cripple Teeter Kennedy.

Howe's main stick in trade, our angry fan claims "is the most covert, dangerous, and dirty use of each end of his stick on opponents that the National Hockey League has seen since they threw Billy Coutu out of the league."

"Howe," he continues, "has learned. He does his dirty work in the middle of the huddle now, with butt end and with blade. He gets away with stuff even out in the open that would buy Shuck, Baun, Gadsby or Bolvin a prompt trip to the (penalty) box. The NHL referees seem to share your idolatry of him."

That Howe is a tough and, when he is challenged, an often mean customer is something that could have escaped few hockey fans. It may not always be an excuse but when a player is so good that opposing coaches send out the likes of Fleming and Shuck to try and minimize his ability in any manner they can, no one could expect the object of their attention not to assert himself if he has the size to do it. Little fellows like Henri Richard and Gilles Tremblay, crashed out of the Stanley Cup playdowns by Baun, just have to take it.

However, while not believing for one minute that Howe is the hater-man pictured in the foregoing, I'll concede that on occasion his tactics are not excusable. But he was not lauded here for his gentlemanly conduct on the ice, just for the fact that he has done more things well than any player in hockey over a period of almost two decades.

All our fan concedes Howe is that "he is big, strong, magnificent co-ordinated and he is one of those people who know what to do with the puck when he gets it around an opponent's goal."

"I don't mind any columnist espousing any cause," he winds up, "but I reserve the right to be critical when he uses a supposedly knowledgeable column to indulge in an interperate, uncritical adulation of one player and, almost in the same paragraph, sneers at other players who are trying to earn their salaries in a tough (tough?) sport."

Shuck, who "tries to give you your money's worth," and Fleming, who "in case you haven't watched him lately, is probably the best penalty killer since Milt Schmidt hung up his skates," are presumed to be the objects of the presumed sneers.

Shuck, admittedly, does try hard, and he butts well, too. About Fleming, I have noticed that he is seldom used when the game hangs in the balance. And little wonder. He has averaged more than 110 minutes in penalties in his four NHL seasons—132 of them this season with 10 games left to play. It must be the highest percentage in NHL history in relation to the amount of time spent on the ice, and makes it reasonable to believe that Bob Pulford, Howie, Dave Keon, Alex Delvecchio, Norm Ullman, George Armstrong, Ron Stewart and Don Marshall, to name a few, are far more valuable than Fleming, a penalty-killer. And they do other things, too, such as making plays and scoring goals.

To paraphrase, I don't mind anyone not agreeing with what is written here—it is not meant, or expected, to win unanimous support—but it is difficult not to return criticism when dislike for a player brings the statement that Milt Schmidt "could play more hockey up and down the ice before breakfast than Howe ever could all day."

Statistics can be boring and, sometimes, they may not mean as much as they appear to do. But Howe, against opposition the likes of Maurice Richard, Bernie Geoffrion and Andy Bathgate in his prime, has been the NHL all star rightwinger eight times, and, counting this season, the second choice seven times in the last 16 years. He has won the NHL scoring championship six times and been voted the Hart Trophy as its most valuable player six times. Only once in the past 15 seasons has he scored less than 25 goals and he has had 30 or more 10 times. His NHL record shows 365 goals and 715 assists in 1189 games and his Stanley Cup record shows 37 goals and 83 assists in 131 games.

Then there are the other things—the logging of more ice time than any player in his time except goalkeepers, the penalty-killing, the solid defensive play and the intangibles such as ice leadership—he has given his club for 18 seasons.

No, we are not sneering at Schmidt. He was a truly great player, perhaps the best all-round centreman in NHL history. He was so good, in fact, that I'll risk being called intemperate by someone on the other side of the fence by comparing him favorably with Howe.

Patterson Vs. Machen

FLOYD PATTERSON
... are there doubts?

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, former world heavyweight boxing champion, and Eddie Machen of San Francisco yesterday signed for a 12-round bout to be held in Stockholm on July 5.

Machen said he had been guaranteed $50,000 for the fight while Patterson did not disclose what financial arrangements had been made with him.

The bout has a great bearing on the future of both principals. If Patterson can win handily he will have regained considerable of his lost prestige, while an impressive victory for Machen would probably lead to a title fight with Cassius Clay.

EDDIE MACHEN

they got absolute minimum production.

Shamrocks went ahead twice in the third quarter, and there was never more than one goal between the clubs until Shires scored at 11:25 and 12:50. Goalie Barry Forbes, who was often brilliant for Shamrocks, swears the first one hit the side of the net rather than going in, but it counted and Shires' goals were the last the fans were to see.

There is a difference, if you are trying to draw a parallel between the "whiz kids" of early this year or next—yesterday and those of today. Back then, the leader on the bench was a placid, quiet, professional type named Eddie Sawyer. His chief ace in the hole was a relief pitcher named Jim Konstanty. But for inspirational leadership, Sawyer was about in the category of Zazu Pitts directing the charge at Balacava.

Mauch is a different sort of character. As previously pointed out, these guys have all come up through the farm system. This is not, as in Sawyer's case, a one-year wonder. Gene's guys have to pull it off early this year or next—they may take a long time being unseated.

Terry Fails on Breakaways

In alone for third time in game, Nanaimo's Terry Davis shoots wide as goalie Barry Forbes leaps at ball and Ed Kowalyk pursues Davis. Davis had rough night despite two-goal effort, but Nanaimo beat Victoria Shamrocks, 8-6, at Memorial Arena in Inter-City Lacrosse League opener.

Pena Keeps Habit Bubbles Off Field

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Orlando Pena, bubble-gum chomper, has blown his last bubble at a batter.

The Kansas City Athletics' pitcher, during the week-end series with Washington, blew a bubble just as he threw a pitch to Jimmy King of the Senators.

King hit into a double play and Washington manager Gil Hodges blew up.

Hodges charged to the plate and told umpire Johnny Rice that Pena popped the bubble to distract King.

"I told Orlando not to do it any more," Rice said later.

"I still chew, but will blow bubbles when not on the mound," Pena said. "I don't think I do anything wrong."

NEW PRESIDENT
At Golf Club

W. F. Munro has been elected president of Victoria Golf Club succeeding Harold Husband.

T. L. McMaster was elected vice-president and A. E. Osborn, captain.

Named to the three vacant spots on the executive committee were R. D. Clay, Dr. Ron Scott, Moncrieff and Hugh Francis.

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, former world heavyweight boxing champion, and Eddie Machen of San Francisco yesterday signed for a 12-round bout to be held in Stockholm on July 5.

Machen said he had been guaranteed $50,000 for the fight while Patterson did not disclose what financial arrangements had been made with him.

The bout has a great bearing on the future of both principals. If Patterson can win handily he will have regained considerable of his lost prestige, while an impressive victory for Machen would probably lead to a title fight with Cassius Clay.

There is a difference, if you are trying to draw a parallel between the "whiz kids" of early this year or next—yesterday and those of today. Back then, the leader on the bench was a placid, quiet, professional type named Eddie Sawyer. His chief ace in the hole was a relief pitcher named Jim Konstanty. But for inspirational leadership, Sawyer was about in the category of Zazu Pitts directing the charge at Balacava.

Mauch is a different sort of character. As previously pointed out, these guys have all come up through the farm system. This is not, as in Sawyer's case, a one-year wonder. Gene's guys have to pull it off early this year or next—they may take a long time being unseated.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Orlando Pena, bubble-gum chomper, has blown his last bubble at a batter.

The Kansas City Athletics' pitcher, during the week-end series with Washington, blew a bubble just as he threw a pitch to Jimmy King of the Senators.

King hit into a double play and Washington manager Gil Hodges blew up.

Hodges charged to the plate and told umpire Johnny Rice that Pena popped the bubble to distract King.

"I told Orlando not to do it any more," Rice said later.

No Sign of Nerves

Favorite for Saturday's Kentucky Derby, Hill Rise playfully nips coat of Roanoke Goose, who rode Doanall to victory in 1913 Derby. Goose chose Count Fleet as winner of "dream" field of past winners if such a race could be held — with Goose in saddle. (AP Photofax)

It's now almost 50 years since the world came to its senses, all the soldiers went home, got married and had lots of bonny babies.

Apart from the occasional row, I'm very much a man of peace and I'm definitely in favour of bonny babies. But there's no denying that they DO create a problem.

Most of that post-war harvest of infants are now healthy, ambitious teenagers. Roughly half of them are boys and it seems to me that roughly 90 per cent of those lads have suddenly decided that professional golf is as good a career as any.

Every time I turn up at a tournament these days I find myself surrounded by a mass of young men I've never seen before. And it's much the same, I gather, in America and Japan particularly.

Serious Problem

Now I always have been, and always will be, incensed by those miserable middle-agers who want to keep youth in their place. But, at the same time, this bulge as it's known in Britain, has suddenly presented professional golf with its most serious problem for many years.

Before the war a British tournament was colossal if it had more than 120 entrants. Today 250 is almost a common figure. Consequently, the traffic jams on our fairways are becoming so bad you think you're travelling home from the city in the rush hour. And in Britain, unlike America, the organizers seem powerless to do anything about it.

Well, let me warn them now. They'd better find an answer. Because if the situation is still as bad when the big names like Palmer, Player and Thomson fly in later in the summer, there is going to be trouble.

At the moment we have reached these chaotic depths: even big-name players having to arrive two days early at tournaments to take part in pre-qualifying rounds, players having to drive off at 7 a.m. to relieve the congestion, play going on until it is so dark that you can hardly see the flag from 100 yards.

Even that's not all. At a major tournament during this past fortnight I have seen world-famous players having to drag their own clubs on trolleys during practice rounds. There just weren't enough caddies to go round—and it was a case of first come, first served.

Now let me be brutally blunt about this. Despite the fact that Britain's youthful prospects are better than they have been for years, it remains a fact that about half these youngsters will never make good.

This, of course, doesn't give me—or anyone—the right to deprive them of a chance. They should be given every encouragement, for even if the wastage is 90 per cent it will be worth it if just one more outstanding player is discovered.

But let's have some common sense about it. Since this is almost certain to become an international problem within a few years let me put forward two suggestions.

Easier to Manage

Firstly, the creation of a Second Division for tournament golf. These youngsters would then have to win their way into the First Division on sheer merit and the fields in both sections would be kept down to manageable—and more equal—proportions.

There is, of course, one snag about this. Tournament organizers obviously wouldn't be prepared to put up so much cash for lesser events. But we all had to start somewhere—and what's wrong with a system that encourages youngsters to fight still harder to get into the big time?

The alternative—and I cannot claim it to be an original thought since the Americans have been doing it for years—is to regionalize the qualifying rounds for the big tournaments. In other words, all the prospective qualifiers play off at some Southern, Midland or Northern course which is probably not more than 100 miles or so from their homes and then proceed to the major event only if they have proved themselves worthy to do so.

Either of these proposals would undoubtedly mean a great deal of complicated re-organization.

But better to face the problem now than to wait until the ever-crowded fairways have choked big golf to a standstill.

SEATTLE (CP)—Al Leader, son to anticipate they would be back next season. The matter of which franchises will operate in the 1964-65 season is the first order of business, at the annual meeting of the WHL in Seattle May 7-8.

"I'm going ahead making plans for next year in the Western Hockey League. We're building new offices at the Cow Palace, cleaning up last year's business and looking forward to next year and a third straight title."

Galloping Win by Hill Rise Fails to Shrink Derby Field

By RAY AYRES
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Hill Rise, now firmly established as a 6-5 favorite for Saturday's running of the Kentucky Derby, has failed to scare most owners out of the race and 14 finely-tuned three-year-olds were listed as probable starters.

DO WHAT? "Hill Rise looked good Tuesday in winning the Trial but what the heck, that's the horse we're supposed to be afraid of," said Jimmy Picou, trainer of Roy Sturgis' Mr. Brick.

"All I know is that my colt is running better than he's ever in his life and I know he'll be running," Picou added.

Two horses did drop out of the 90th running of the mile-and-a-quarter race—Grand Garcon, a Canadian colt owned by Hamilton steel magnate Frank Sherman, who judged his horse not ready to take on America's top three-year-olds, and R. L. No-cero's Admiral's Heart, who was never figured seriously.

THE HOPEFULS That left Canadian bred and owned Northern Dancer, Quadangle, The Scoundrel, Roman Brother, Mr. Brick, Dandy K, Wil Rad, Mr. Moonlight, Ishkodah, Royal Shuck, Extra Swell, Prince Davelle, He's A Gem and Clem Pac as possible opposition for Hill Rise.

However, there was a chance that at least two would drop out before the start.

SECOND CHOICE

Northern Dancer, a serious threat to become the first Canadian-bred to win the Derby, was second choice at 5-2 on Wednesday. Quadangle and The Scoundrel were 8-1 as the next most likely to beat Hill Rise.

"I thought Hill Rise ran a good race in the Trial," said Horatio Lure, who trains Northern Dancer, "but I don't think it should scare anyone. The weather will play a big part in this Derby, too."

"I know now he can run on an off track," trainer Bill Finnegan said of Hill Rise after watching his horse win the Trial impressively.

"We don't care about the track condition," Lure answered in not playing any football last year, brushing aside a question as to whether or not Northern Dancer from high school football at the preferred a fast or muddy track. "My horse can run equal by well in any kind of going." More rain fell Wednesday at Churchill Downs but predictions were that there would be little additional rain between now and Thursday. The track, labelled "good" for the Trial, was "dead" Wednesday morning when the Derby horses were out for exercise.

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference announced today that Jerry James, 23-year-old former all-star Winnipeg Blue Bombers fullback, has signed a 1964 contract.

After 10 years with Bombers, James refused to report to their been set for some time. Willie Shoemaker will be on Hill Rise, Bill Hartack on Northern Dancer, Bob Ussery on Quadangle, Manny Yeaz on The Scoundrel, Jimmy Combest on Mr. Moonlight, Wayne Chambers on Roman Brother, Lameal Valenzuela on Mr. Brick, Mickey Solomon on Dandy K, Ronnie Baldwin on Ishkodah, Merlin Volke on Extra Swell, Larry Gilligan on He's A Gem, Harrel Bolla on Royal Shuck, Charlie Burr on Prince Davelle and Jacinto Vasquez on Wil Rad.

If all 15 possible run, the purse will be worth $147,000 with the winner guaranteed $100,000. The race, to be televised nationally, is scheduled to start at 5:30 Eastern Daylight Time.

Head coach Neill Armstrong said, Therrien can play five positions: offensive guard and tackle, defensive tackle, end and linebacker. In Edmonton, where the talent is spread rather thinly these days, he will probably be used in several of them.

Eskimos also announced that the other player they got in the draft, fullback Bob Myers of Saskatchewan Roughriders, is expected to sign shortly.

QUARTERBACKS seem to be the chief concern of CFL teams, judging by latest signings. . . Saskatchewan Roughriders have grabbed Larry Harp, a late cut from Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League last year, who will compete with holdover Ron Lancaster and import Gerhard Gross of Detroit University. . . Edmonton Eskimos have signed quarterback Gary Bertfield of Utah State, a 6'3", 203-pounder who will have to beat out Lynn Asadsee and Canadian Don Gesty for the first-string spot. . . Toronto Argos also landed Jim Christopherson, linebacker and placement kicker with Minnesota Vikings in 1962. . . Don Smith, former University of Missouri halfback, joins Ottawa Rough Riders, and guard Dennis Gerard of Boston University goes to Montreal.

Teams may sign only one player who was in a higher classification of softball last season.

Derby All by Itself Says Record-Holder

NEW YORK (UPI)—This is the time of heart-tugging memories for Eddie Arcaro.

Arcaro, you'll remember, was one of the world's premier jockeys for 26 years. Then, in 1961, he stepped out of the arena into retirement.

But they run the Kentucky Derby on Saturday and to the little man who won the rose run a record five times it always was the biggest one of them all.

HE HAD MANY

"I rode in it 21 times and every one was an experience," he remembers. "Rough? Well, yes. And for many reasons."

"First of all, it's the one they all want to win the most so the jocks are more keyed up and nobody is giving anybody else an inch," he smiled. "It's the top and generally there's a big field. Lots of them shouldn't be on the track and they clutter the field, so the going can get some sticky."

Dapper Eddie won the Derby with Lawrin in 1938, when he was 19 years old; and later with Whirlaway in 1941, Hopp Jr. in 1945, Citation in 1948 and Hill Gail in 1952. He also finished second three times with Phalanx in 1947, Hill Prince in 1950 and Nashua in 1955.

REMEMBERS THIS ONE

You might think that being beaten by the mighty Nashua would be his greatest Derby disappointment but Eddie's grimmest moment was when he lost by a head to Phalanx.

"He was two or three lengths the best horse," Arcaro insisted.

"But it was muddy and he got off slowly. Then at the eighth pole we hit a hole and lost another length. That was one time, when we came from fifth in the stretch to lose to Jet Pilot by a head, that I wished the Derby distance had been a mile and a quarter and one more jump."

BIGGEST THREE

Now president of the Live Stock and Casualty Insurance Company which insures horses and cattle, and is getting a big play from owners of thoroughbreds and trotters, Arcaro remembers his first triumph, aboard Lawrin, as his greatest Derby thrill.

"Maybe it's because it was my first one," he mused. "But on top of that I didn't think we had a chance to win. I just wanted to ride in the Derby."

"Of course, Lawrin had won the Flamingo in Florida that winter," Arcaro added. "But Stagehand was the best horse and a big favorite. Then, on the morning of the derby he came up sick and had to be scratched. Still, we were no better than fourth choice behind Fighting Fox, Bull Lea and Menow. But we caught Menow in the stretch and won by a length. It was really something."

Born in Cincinnati and raised across the river in Newport, Ky., Arcaro started working on the race track at 13 and "by cheating" started riding a month before he was the required 16 years old. Thus he was 16 when he had his first derby ride on a filly named Nellie Flag in 1935.

Arcaro is quietly jealous of his position in the racing world and, having been surpassed by Willie Shoemaker as the second leading money winner of all time, points out that his first derby was a $50,000 event while today it is worth $150,000.

"Willie won four $100,000 races already this year," Arcaro said in analyzing the changing times. "But I have no regrets because I've had a helluva wonderful life."

No regrets except for wishing that maybe this Saturday when the band plays "My Old Kentucky Home" and they parade to the post for the big race, little Eddie will be wishing inside that he was shooting for number six.

Outstanding Italian Movie May Ruin Olympic Business

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP) — This sort of thing could put the Olympics out of business. I mean this new movie about the 1900 Olympics in Rome. It's called The Grand Olympics, and it has just hit this country from Italy.

For two hours it catches the sight, sound and color of the Olympics as no spectator since the days of Nero has ever seen.

After the fans have seen this thing who's going to get them to pay $10 to watch the preliminary games in nine-man volleyball, and get gouged by a taxi driver on the way home?

Or sit in the hot sun all day watching 39 guys from Albania and Zanzibar miss at five feet, nine inches in the high jump.

Or get out of jail at dawn to bail out a friend who's had language misadventure with the local gendarmes?

Instead, they can follow the camera as it follows the slap-slap of the bare feet of the Ethiopian who won the marathon in a flood-lit run down the ancient Appian Way, switch almost instantly to the duel in the 100 metres, catch the disputed finish at the swimming pool, ogle those yumm-yumm lassies in the gymnastics—and even catch the judges in a mistake.

This is a movie that will get sports fans out of the clean air and back into smoky, stuffy theatres again.

Mounties Still Hopeful

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties, late of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, are still hanging on to their home grounds, Vancouver's Capilano Stadium.

City council has voted to extend the club's lease on the grounds until the end of this year.

The council vote was given on the assertion of club officials that "there is an excellent chance that Vancouver will be represented in the Coast League in 1965."

Mounties last season in the league was 1962—they left because of financial difficulties.

'Rich Man's Son' Suspected In Raceway's Betting Coup

NEW YORK (UPI) — The race track clerk who sold the double ticket worth $132,239.80 said Wednesday it was bought by a nervous man who "looked like some rich son's favorite son."

The unprecedented pot was still waiting late yesterday at Roosevelt Raceway for the winner to come with his ticket and take it away.

At first, it was believed that the lucky ticket holder was a woman.

But George Hawkins of Great Neck, N.Y., a clerk at the track, said he had sold the ticket to a man about six-foot-one-inch tall, weighing about 185 pounds, who wore a light-colored suit and hat.

He said the man appeared nervous and unfamiliar with pari-mutuel betting.

Hawkins said the man came to the betting window with two $100 bills and bought several combinations of tickets. He said he judged from questions the man asked that he was not a "racetrack regular."

The biggest guessing game at the track was why the winner had not picked up the money.

A track official offered a heart-breaking thought when he said, "maybe the person... lost it or destroyed it by mistake." This sometimes happens.

IT ADDS UP

State tax commissioner Joseph M. Murphy said that the state received $497,534.85 in uncollected tickets last year.

When—and if—the winner presents the ticket, a large part of it will have to be shared with Uncle Sam.

An official of the U.S. Internal revenue service said to day that if the winner turns out to be single with no dependents, his federal income tax on the ticket would be $82,996. That would leave $409,404—and New York state income tax would still have to come out.

The Polish Lawn Tennis Association said the match was being forfeited. There was no other explanation.

Net Result No Tennis

WARSAW (AP)—Poland has cancelled its Davis Cup match with South Africa in Warsaw next weekend, apparently because of South Africa's racial policies.

The Polish Lawn Tennis Association said the match was being forfeited. There was no other explanation.

COMING OF AGE

With Sally Hamilton

Has thriftiness gone out of style? Sometimes it seems so, at least for many Canadians. But stretching dollars becomes eighty important to anyone living on a pension. A retired railwayman writes:

"When Helen and I were first married, I was working as a conductor on the Canadian National and my pay had a big job to do. It was thanks to a tight budget that we managed at all."

"As my pay improved and we had more to spend, we got into a habit of buying extras and that quite often on impulse. But now we're sort of back where we started. I've retired and we have to live on my pension."

"You may think I'm kidding when I say it's fun! We're matching our wits against high food prices, built-in obsolescence, costly entertainment and so on. It's just amazing the ways we have found to cut corners."

"Buying groceries, for instance. Before we shop now we plan menus for a week and make a shopping list. We check food ads for things in season and for bargains. We stick to that list, making a change only if we see a better buy. We keep our food money in a separate purse. And it works!"

Some of the "good buys" my correspondent mentioned include: cereals to cook rather than ready-to-eat; margarine in place of butter; skim milk powder; "standard" rather than "fancy" quality canned foods.

He says: "We shop where prices are lowest and we buy exactly what we will eat, no more, avoiding like poison the little extras."

When the income is small, a big chunk of it goes for food. And, as there are more chances for cutting corners in grocery buying, I've rounded up a dozen dollar-stretchers to write on your cuff or tack on the wall:

● Day-old bread is cheaper and just as nutritious as fresh. It's easily freshened by toasting.

● Buy soup bones for stock and keep a soup pot going, even if it's a small one. Into it put potato water and other vegetable water. Add outside stalks of celery, chopped, and bits of leftover vegetables, a little rice or barley.

● Make macaroni and cheese to serve as a main dish. Occasionally add a chopped hard-cooked egg or two to the mixture, or some ground leftover meat.

● Serve tomato juice sometimes instead of orange juice at breakfast.

● Use leftover juices from canned fruits in gelatin desserts, or for making fruit sauces for pudding or ice cream.

● Use ground beef in tomato sauce for spaghetti, for making meat loaves, patties or meat balls.

● Make salmon loaf, using the cheaper light pink salmon.

● Use dried beans and peas in casserole dishes with tomatoes, adding a little ground beef or pork.

● Mild Canadian cheddar cheese is one of the cheapest sources of concentrated protein.

● Watch for bargains in frozen foods. To serve two, a package may be cut in half with a sharp knife; one half cooked and the other kept frozen.

● Twenty-five cents worth of chicken bones, stewed slowly and stripped carefully from the bones, will yield 1½ to 2 cups of solid meat. Good for a small chicken loaf; creamed or curried chicken; a salad or a sandwich filling.

● Look for private brands bearing your supermarket's name. Usually they offer high quality at low prices. But, remember, name brands are a guarantee of consistent quality. Products often sold under private brands include instant coffee, liquid detergents, frozen vegetables, peanut butter.

Do you have some dollar-saving discoveries of your own? If so, would you share them with other readers? Write Sally Hamilton in care of this newspaper and watch "Coming of Age" for more ways to make your money behave.

Volvo's Rally Sweep Spurs Sales Drive

MONTREAL (CP) — When a car manufacturer spends thousands of dollars on entries in a car rally, it is more than likely that he has weighed the costs against what a victory could mean in future sales.

This was the case in last week's 4,000-mile rally from Vancouver to Montreal, in which Volvo (Canada) Ltd., scored an unprecedented grand slam victory.

CLEAN SWEEP

John Kay, of Dartmouth, N.S., director of marketing for Volvo (Canada), gave this progression of events after Canadian-built Volvo cars made the sweep of the rally's over-all, women's, manufacturers' team and class championships:

The news was wired to the company's head office in Sweden where six translators immediately sent announcements to wire services and company offices in 27 countries.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Within 24 hours discussions were started on advertising campaigns based on the victory. Within a week advertisements were expected to appear in newspapers in many countries.

Others would appear in magazines later.

Authorities could not recall when a company had made such a major sweep of an international rally such as this one—the longest and becoming one of the toughest in the world.

Mr. Kay said the victory should affect Volvo sales in Canada and the rest of the world.

Three Artillery Cadets To Get Highest Award

Three young Victoria militiamen will receive the highest award a cadet can achieve during the annual ceremonial inspection of the 5th (B.C.) Ind. Med. Battery, RCA, in the Bay Street Armory at 8 p.m. Friday.

Recipients of the Gold Star of the Master Cadet will be WO1 D. I. Smith, 17; WO2 Keith Allen, 18, and WO2 Howard Eames, 18, Maj. T. G. Dabell, commanding officer, announced last night.

The public is invited to the inspection.

Double Parking Hit

Trucks Not Using Downtown Loading Zones

City council's traffic committee has urged further efforts aimed at elimination of double parked trucks from crowded downtown streets.

Ald. A. W. Toone said Tuesday it appears some drivers make no effort to use loading zones.

He noted that on occasion, trucks are double parked, blocking a whole lane of traffic, only a short distance from a loading zone created for the convenience of commercial vehicles.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of the advisory traffic commission, said a survey of the double-parking problem is already under way.

He added that police haven't been asked to mount a full-scale drive against double parking because it is recognized that downtown stores and businesses must be supplied by truck.

LOADING ZONES

The steady increase in the number of loading zones for commercial vehicles reflects efforts to solve the problem, the chairman said.

The advisory traffic body recently sent a letter to local trucking firms asking that not more than one truck be dispatched to a single block at one time.

Half a dozen firms have already replied that they will be glad to co-operate with the city.

Fishing vessels and pleasure craft using Fishermen's Wharf will be required to pay higher fees starting May 1.

The committee was told that the city had "no option" but to put into effect a new scale of fees set by Ottawa for government wharfs.

Winter rates are only slightly higher, for the period of May 1-Oct. 31. A 25-foot boat now paying $2 will have to pay $10 a month, and a 40-foot boat will be assessed $20 instead of the present $4.

CARPARK OPEN

A letter will be sent to Jack Kroeger, manager of the Atlas Theatre, who wrote to complain of the removal of diagonal parking on Yates, pointing out that he is mistaken in claiming that the civic car-park facilities are closed at night.

The facilities are used for evening parking at a flat fee of 25 cents.

Suspect's Prediction Completely Correct

When Const. Ed Hardy crawled in a broken window at Bert's Fine Foods, April 22, he found inside Edward Day, 201 Rendall.

Day, who has a police record for theft, breaking and entering, and assault, was in possession of packages of cigarettes, whose excise stamp numbers corresponded with packages still on the store's shelves.

PESSIMISTIC

"I suppose you are going to say I stole these," was Day's pessimistic prediction.

Const. Hardy allowed as how Day was correct in his assumption.

PLEADED GUILTY

Day will be sentenced May 7 for breaking and entering with intent to commit an indictable offence.

He pleaded guilty before Magistrate William Outler yesterday.

Fraser Host to Ling

An 11-year-old Chinese girl in Hong Kong has been the "adopted" daughter of an Esquimalt-based destroyer-escort ever since 1960.

Crew members of the HMCS Margaree have been sending Yiu Chi Ling the equivalent of $15 (U.S.) a month to help pay for clothes, education and general well-being.

HMCS Fraser—in Hong Kong with HMCS Mackenzie on a training cruise recently entertained Yiu Chi Ling, and part of her family and gave her two large dolls from the Margaree.

The girl is one of nine children, seven sons and two daughters.

City Veteran Makes Longest Trip

A former Royal Marine corporal, now living in Victoria, travelled the longest distance from home to join his former buddies in a sentimental journey from Dover to Zeebrugge last Saturday.

E. F. Tracey, 2411 Epworth, joined a party of Royal Navy and Royal Marine veterans, ranging in age from 65 to 80, who revisited the scene of the First World War raid.

Many of their comrades fell during the raid on The Mole at Zeebrugge. Honors awarded for the action were 11 VCs, 21 DSOs, 29 DSCs, 16 CGMS, 143 DSMs and 263 Mentions in Dispatches.

Prospectors Survive Inlet Crash

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY (CP)—Two prospectors arrived here Wednesday after being rescued by a fishboat following the crash Monday of their float plane at Mica Inlet, near the northeastern tip of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The men, pilot Lee Cannutte and passenger Jack McLean, both of Prince Rupert, escaped with cuts and bruises when their Cessna 140 hit the water shortly after take-off. They swam about 200 yards to shore and remained about 24 hours before being spotted by a passing fishboat.

Here they will board a commercial flight to Prince Rupert. Their plane was a total loss.

Employment Shows Dip In February

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's industrial composite index of employment declined to 123 at the end of February from 123.3 at the end of January, the bureau of statistics said Wednesday.

However, the index—based on 1949 equalling 100—was up from last year's February index of 117.4.

Increased employment was recorded in the month in the manufacturing and service industries. However, this was more than offset by decreased employment in forestry, construction and trade.

Five Per Cent Boost

Pulp, Paper Workers Vote for Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 5,000 workers in B.C.'s big pulp and paper mills have voted in favor of a new one-year contract whose key clause is a five per cent wage boost.

The negotiating committee of the two unions involved—the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and United Papermakers and Paperworkers, both CIO members—recommended to their members acceptance of the contract earlier this month.

VOTE IN FAVOR

Ballot boxes opened Wednesday showed the International Brotherhood had voted 86 per cent in favor and United Papermakers 84 per cent in favor.

The wage boost brings the new basic rate to $2.29 an hour and the journeyman mechanic's rate to $3.28.

Another clause in the contract provides for special funeral leave—up to a maximum three days a year—for an employee attending the funeral of someone in his immediate family.

U.S. Again Protests British Cuba Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has again protested Britain's increasing trade with Communist Cuba. It was learned Wednesday.

Authoritative sources said Secretary of State Dean Rusk told British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler that President Johnson was very displeased with the British attitude.

Battle of Atlantic Navy Week Opens Sunday

Navy Week starts Sunday with Battle of the Atlantic, and continues with events all over Vancouver Island.

Also on Sunday the destroyer-escort HMCS Saskatchewan will call at Nanaimo to take 80 students and career counselors on a schools relation cruise.

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday services will be held in the covered drill shed at HMCS Naden for Protestants and in the auditorium for Catholics.

HMCS Naden band will tour up-island communities in company with a diving safety display Monday through Thursday. Stops will be made at high schools in Campbell River, Courtenay, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Duncan.

WELCOME HOME

Tuesday noon friends and relatives of officers and men of HMCS Fraser and Mackenzie will welcome them home after a four-month cruise in the Far East.

Saturday is the big day in Pacific Command. Open house will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m. in HMC Dockyard, the Fleet School at HMCS Naden and at VU-33 Utility Air Squadron headquarters at Patricia Bay airport.

U.S. VISITORS

That day at dockyard, in addition to RCN ships, two U.S. navy destroyers, USS Edmonds and USS Tawing, will be open to visitors.

In Nanaimo the same day, the frigate HMCS Stettler will take part in the city's Navy Day program along with the USS Lenawee, a 12,000-ton U.S. Navy troop transport. Both ships will land marching parties for the Nanaimo Navy Day parade.

Sunday, May 10, in Victoria will be a day of colorful church ceremonies and a downtown parade. Navy Week will end with the laying up of two white ensigns in Christ Church Cathedral and St. Andrew's Cathedral.

'Forget Braille'

Eye Scientist Tells Child She Will See

A leading eyesight scientist from New York examined a nine-year-old Oak Harbor, Wash., girl in Victoria yesterday—and told her she can forget all about learning Braille.

Judith De Jong could only read extremely large type at a distance of three or four inches when optometrist Dr. Jack Reid of Anacortes brought her yesterday to see Dr. William Feinbloom of New York.

TOLD HOPELESS

Her mother—Judith is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Wilbur De Jong of the Christian Reformed Church at Oak Harbor—had been told that nothing could be done for Judith's eyesight.

Judith, a Grade 3 student, was learning Braille so she could continue her education.

Dr. Feinbloom, a pioneer in the development of the contact lens, inventor of "i" different lens systems, an expert at making the "i" blind see, was in Victoria for the B.C. Washington Optometric Conference, with the B.C. Optometric Association as host, which ended yesterday.

LENS SETS

After examining Judith he tried on her a set of lenses—three for each eye—and Judith could read the smallest type there was handy—type comparable to that in a high school or university textbook.

"You can forget all about learning Braille," said Dr. Feinbloom. "Soon you will be able to read anything you wish."

He said he will send Dr. Reid the equipment for the manufacture of glasses with which Judith will be able to see.

NEAR AND FAR

Dr. Reid said last night that Judith's glasses will be both telescopic and microscopic so that she will be able to read books, see the blackboard and look at things in between.

He said that Judith's near-sightedness was caused by brain surgery two years ago which damaged her optic nerve.

Dr. Feinbloom also examined a number of Vancouver Island people with defective sight.

Earlier, in a talk to the conference, he said optical devices developed in the last 50 years can give vision to 90 per cent of legally blind people—people who can see no more than 20 feet from a normal person at 200.

Cigarettes Back in U.S.

Smokers Blowing Rings Around Cancer Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Cigarette smoking is back in vogue in the U.S.

The turnabout began last month and continued through April, a bare three months since a U.S. government report linked cigarette smoking to cancer.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

The change has caused the price of cigarette company stocks to increase, and brightened the sales outlook for manufacturers, whose revenue lagged in the first quarter.

On Jan. 11 an advisory committee to the U.S. surgeon general branded cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer and a contributing factor to other serious diseases.

BACK TO NORMAL

A U.S.-wide survey by The Associated Press determined that cigarette sales are back to normal in most major cities.

Retail and wholesale sales equalling or approaching pre-Jan. 11 levels were reported in Minneapolis, Detroit, Chicago, Albany, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Los Angeles, Raleigh, Atlanta, Boston, Columbia, S.C., Charlotte and Durham, N.C. In Kansas City, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Dallas cigarette volume was estimated at still slightly below former levels.

Among 18 of the largest states, first quarter cigarette tax revenues fell behind last year in 13, were about unchanged in four and increased in Kansas City, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Dallas cigarette volume was estimated at still slightly below former levels.

January revenues had been estimated at off six to nine per cent and February off 15 per cent from a year earlier.

Undersea Tourists

But Pipes Gain In Canada

MONTREAL (UPI)—The sale of pipes more than doubled across Canada during the first quarter of 1964, the Pipe and Tobacco Council of Canada reported Wednesday.

The "phenomenal" pace continued through April, with the biggest surge creating a shortage in the $4 to $5 medium-price range.

One Montreal-based distributor said his volume in the January-March period had increased 115 per cent, while in Toronto the same distributor said his increase was 75 per cent.

A distributor in Kirkland Lake, Ont., said every day now is like Christmas.

'Dangerous' Cliches Under Fire

TORONTO (CP)—Postmaster General Nicholson Wednesday criticized what he described as "dangerous clichés"—United States domination of Canadian industry and Quebec "contracting out" of Confederation.

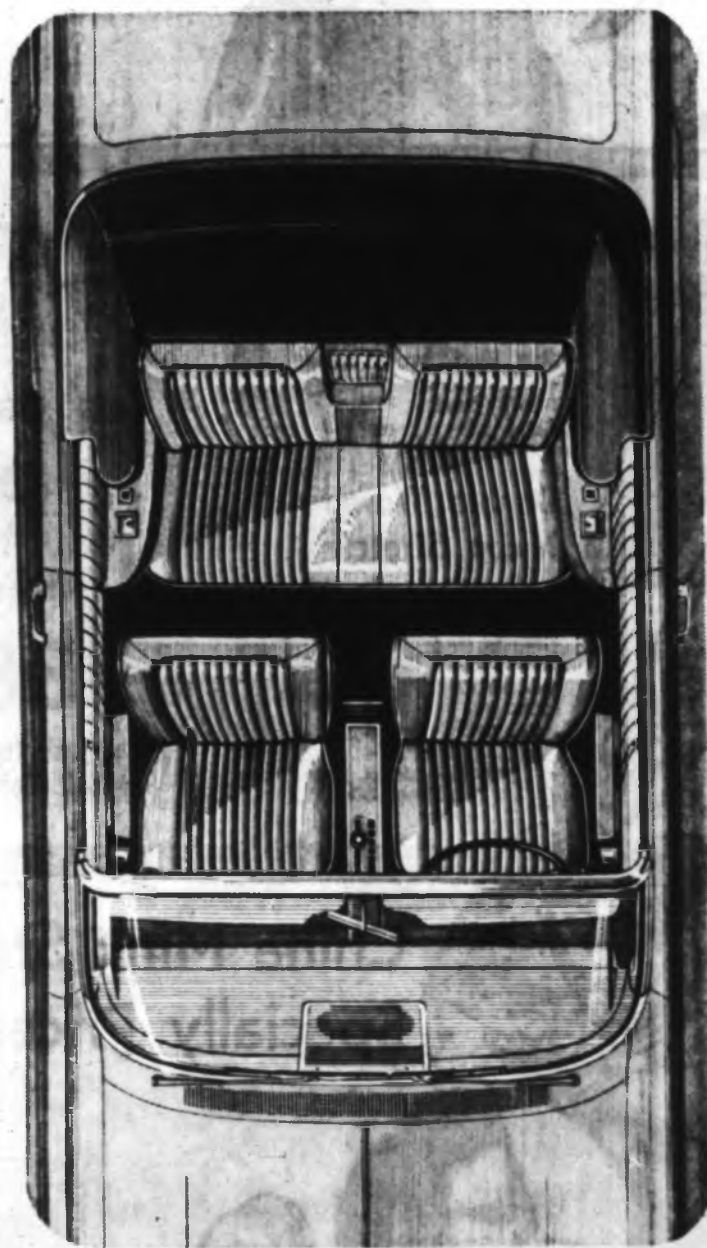

"Neither their constant repetition nor the authority of their source can invest them with any relevance," he told the annual conference of the Association of Canadian Advertisers Incorporated.

PRIDE SHAMED

Mr. Nicholson said the phrase "American domination" was "involved to ridicule Canadian authority, to shame Canadian national pride."

He said it attempts to assign responsibility for the wealth and power of the U.S. to "subservience or inefficiency of the Canadian government or in Canada's lesser development," and not to U.S. effort, policy and people.

The cliché that Quebec is "contracting out" of Confederation is "absolute nonsense," Mr. Nicholson said.

Alcoholics Jam Clinic

The six-month-old Victoria branch of the B.C. Alcoholism Foundation is growing so fast it soon may not be able to take on new patients.

"The acceptance and growth of our service have far exceeded our expectations," supervisor Rev. Leonard McFerran said in his first semi-annual report, released yesterday.

Growth has been twice as rapid as that of the Vancouver clinic when it opened 10 years ago, he said, chiefly due to greater public information.

But the Victoria clinic has been working at maximum capacity for three months, and has had to pull back on its community education program because of possible risk to treatment of patients.

The clinic provides counselling services for alcoholics and their families, as well as treatment, and in six months has treated 69 patients, while interviewing 254 people a total of 825 times.

"At the present rate," said Mr. McFerran, "we shall soon be devoting practically all our time to patients who are continuing in treatment, with no time or staff to meet the needs of new cases."

"We have no solution to this problem within our present facilities."

Economist Attacks

Columbia Treaty 'Inflicted' by B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — The scheme proposed in the Columbia River treaty with the United States "was inflicted upon Canada by the government of British Columbia for political reasons," Toronto economist Larratt Higgins said Wednesday.

Economist Higgins had nothing to do with the decision to veto the all-Canadian plan of development involving flooding of the East Kootenay but that situation now has changed, he testified before the Commons external affairs committee.

QUOTES GREEN

Premier Bennett of B.C. halted the plan to negotiate with the U.S. on the basis of the all-Canadian or McNaughton concept, Mr. Higgins said in quoting a Commons speech to that effect by former external affairs minister Howard Green.

The reason was that the Columbia would conflict with plans to develop the Peace River to the north, producing a surplus of power. But now that the Canadian share of Columbia power was being sold to the U.S., there was no need to continue with the treaty plan of development.

And Higgins, an Ontario Hydro economist appearing as a private individual, said flatly he would reject the 1961 treaty and the subsequent protocol of last January as arrangements that "contain grave legal economic and political defects."

It would be possible now, he said, to finance the rival plan proposed by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton—keeping water control within Canada—in the same way that the treaty concept is to be executed.

MORE THAN COST

This hinges on advance payment by the U.S. of $274,800,000 for power to B.C., more than paying costs of three Canadian storage dams.

A fourth dam would be the $350,000,000 dam at Libby, Mont., just across the boundary, to regulate the Kootenay River—spelled Kootenai in the U.S.—after it leaves B.C. and before it re-enters the province farther west. The McNaughton plan would divert the Kootenay into the Columbia instead.

Libby spelled "control of the Columbia for all time in the future," said the authority who had been part of a Canadian-U.S. team engaged in pre-treaty research on the project. He also suggested that another controversial structure, the proposed High Arrow Dam north of Trail on the Columbia, is unnecessary at this time and probably in the future.

CONCLUSION REJECTED

Mr. Higgins rejected the conclusion of a consulting firm of engineers specially retained in January by the government to analyze the benefits of the treaty and McNaughton plans. This says the treaty plan costs less and produces almost as much power.

Mr. Higgins said the hypothetical McNaughton plan outlined by the study of Montreal Engineering Company Limited erred in proposing essential flood control for U.S. Kootenai areas only in 1988. This need was immediate.

He said Libby costs $350,000,000 and that the Canadian alternative dam storage cost about $155,000,000. Later figures by the consulting firm show that the cost of the East Kootenay dams are an estimated $212,800,000. Mr. Higgins was informed—or some $55,000,000 higher than he estimated.

WITH McNAUGHTON

Mr. Higgins, under questioning by John B. Stewart, parliamentary secretary to the secretary of state, said he agrees substantially with the views of Gen. McNaughton.

He said it would be normal practice to operate Mica Creek Dam as storage for American regulation until power-generating equipment was needed there in the late 1970s. Controversial High Arrow Dam downstream wasn't needed now for that purpose and perhaps never would be. This could be done with a power interconnection with the U.S.

After Mica generating capacity was installed, further upstream and downstream storage could be added to facilitate Mica power output as opposed to flood-control protection and power needs in the U.S.

Strike

Yards Near Normal

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Operations are gradually returning to normal in Victoria's two largest shipyards, while Burrard Dry Dock in North Vancouver began operations yesterday despite picketing by one dissident union.

Burrard returned to operations yesterday after the 11-week shipyard strike despite continued picketing by 50 members of Vancouver Local 170 of the Plumbers, Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union.

WAGE PARITY

The plumbers are seeking wage parity with electricians, who now get 10 cents an hour more than the plumbers.

In Victoria, Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows returned to production Monday. Tom Wheatley, business agent for Victoria Local 324 of the plumbers' union, said yesterday that the Victoria union, like the Vancouver plumbers, voted against the proposal which ended the strike, and was the only Victoria union to do so.

270 OF 500

Burrard had 270 of 500 men back at work when operations began again yesterday, and David Chapman of Vancouver, chief negotiator for the other unions involved in the strike, said the rest would be able to return to work when the plumbers end their walkout.

It is understood a prolonged refusal by the plumbers to return to work could have an increasing effect on Burrard's operations, since the firm will eventually need plumbers and pipefitters to complete jobs on various projects and allow other employees to stay on the job.

All 2,800 members of Local 170 of the plumbers' union will vote Saturday on whether to continue the walkout, but Russell St. Elol of the plumbers' union has recommended the plumbers hold out for the additional 10 cents an hour.

Vietnamese Overrun Red Bastion

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnamese Rangers Wednesday overran a major Communist Viet Cong military depot in the mountain stronghold of Do Xa, and captured quantities of guns, ammunition and explosives.

An American military spokesman said guerrilla defenders fled without a fight before the ranger unit, part of a big government force pressing a massive drive against the Communist rebels in the central highlands.

Peace Bid In Laos

VIETNAME, Laos (UPI) — An International Control Commission (ICC) team Wednesday flew to the Plaines des Jarres in an effort to persuade "red" Prince Souphanouvong to call off a Pathet Lao offensive which already has driven neutralist forces from a strategic hill position.

The Canadian, Indian and Polish members of the ICC were accompanied on the helicopter flight to Khang Khay by representatives of Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairmen of the Geneva peace-keeping machinery in Laos.

Car Wash Set

A car wash to raise funds for troop expenses is planned by the First Victoria Land Rangers and the Fairfield and Windsor Rover crews for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Suburban Motors, Douglas and Saanich.

Let's Get Going Tories Spurred

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker issued a rallying call to party workers Wednesday night to get out, "find out where we went wrong between 1957 and 1963" and then start priming the party for the next election.

"Let's build, let's go out for members, let's go out for finances... let's be ready."

FEAR, SUSPICION

He told a meeting of the Ottawa West Progressive Conservative Association that "all across Canada today we have a degree of dissension, fear and suspicion that we have never seen before in Canadian history."

The Conservative policy of equality for all in Confederation had a role to fill in today's Canada. "The party that made Confederation possible is going to preserve Confederation for the second 100 years."

In the last election, Conservative policy had not been placed before the Canadian people to the full extent, he said. Voters should be left in no doubt of that policy, and they should be informed of the Conservative policies which the Liberals previously criticized and now followed.

A cornerstone of Conservative policy was the establishment of a department of urban affairs, and the calling of a federal-provincial conference on national urban development and redevelopment. The urban blight in Canada made this necessary.

By 1960, he said, about 80 per cent of the population will be living in urban areas and a concerted effort is needed "to give young people hope for the future."

Million Flee China Says Soviet Blast

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet press has reported to a new tack in the bitter ideological struggle with China, reporting for the first time here that more than 1,000,000 Chinese had fled to Hong Kong.

In a 1,800-word article Wednesday night describing conditions of poverty in the British colony, the government evening newspaper Izvestia accused the Chinese leadership of tolerating the colony as a "loophole into the capitalist world."

REFUGEE PROBLEM

In a dispatch from Hong Kong, an Izvestia reporter described poverty and prostitution in the colony and declared: "I cannot keep silent about the problem of the refugees."

"There was a mass crossing in 1962 and the whole Hong Kong press was full of it. It is hard to realize and impossible to reconcile oneself to the fact that these refugees are from the Chinese People's Republic."

IN POVERTY

The refugees "say they decided to abandon their homeland because economic conditions are becoming worse and worse and the people are living in poverty."

"Where are the Chinese leaders leading their country, these leaders who so favor ultra-revolutionary phrases but neglect the task of improving the life of their own people?"

City Sets Example For UN Branches

If other branches of the United Nations Association across Canada had a per capita membership equal to the Victoria branch the association would have a larger influence on government policy, the annual general meeting in the Douglas Building was told last night.

Gordon Selman of the UBC extension department said the association could best serve the world community through contributions to UNICEF, purchasing gift coupons through UNESCO, educating adults and children about the function of the United Nations and world peace and helping to influence the Canadian government in its foreign policy.

MAIN STAKE

Mr. Selman said Canada's main stake in the United Nations was survival. He said the UN's function was to build and preserve a lasting peace.

He said Canada's part in the UN was considerably beyond what might be expected from a country of so small a population and military establishment.

PRESENT TREND

There was a trend at present to swing more business back into the security council at the expense of the general assembly, said Mr. Selman.

One fear faced by the UN was the possibility of large nations withdrawing because small nations now control almost half the general assembly vote but are not required to pay any share of expenses.

The meeting elected Dr. John Chapman as president and Col. W. Johnson, vice-president; Mrs. C. S. Yarwood, secretary; and T. E. DeWolfe, treasurer. Committee members are Miss Annie Black, Miss Margaret Clay, Robert Dudley, Dr. Norman James, Dr. H. F. Morrow, L. F. Swannell, W. E. Tupholme and Miss A. W. Eaton.

Four Named To Senate At Varsity

Three new members were named and one was re-elected to the University of Victoria senate yesterday.

Re-elected for three years is Dr. G. P. Mason, psychology department.

New senators who will serve similar terms are Dr. Gwladys V. Downes, modern languages department; Dr. Bryan F. Farrell, geography; Dr. W. H. Gaddes, psychology.

The four were named by the joint faculties of the university. Leaving the senate at expiration of their terms are Dr. G. R. Elliott, department of economics and political science; Dr. W. G. Fields, biology; and Dr. G. A. Milton, psychology.

Radio Bid

Islander Tries Again

OTTAWA (CP)—W. R. Jeffcott made his fourth bid Wednesday to obtain approval from the Board of Broadcast Governors for a new AM radio station at Duncan.

The proposed station, whose directors include Ken Hutcherson, president of CNAV in Port Alberni, would serve 30,000 people in the Cowichan Valley and would seek CBC affiliation.

BETTER STRUCTURE

Mr. Jeffcott, who told the board his renewed application includes details of improved financial structure and personnel, said he is "more than certain I can make a go of it."

The BGC received written opposition to the application from CHUB in Nanaimo and Roy Parrett of Victoria.

AMPLE CHANCE

Mr. Hutcherson told the board other parties interested in establishing a Duncan station had had ample opportunity to put their case before the BGC.

The BGC will announce its recommendation later.

Schools Face Plumber Walkout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fourteen plumbers employed by the Vancouver school board tendered 48-hour strike notice Wednesday in a dispute involving a security clause in their contract.

The plumbers service 88 elementary and secondary schools in the city. The posting of strike notice could mean a walkout as early as Monday or any time within three months.

A spokesman for Local 170 of the plumber's union said the plumbers were not seeking wage increases, but merely wanted to get the security clause in writing.

Island Liquor Theft Sends One to Jail

VANCOUVER—Arnold Blanchard, 19, of Vancouver, was sentenced Wednesday to one year definite and one year indefinite in jail for possession of stolen liquor.

Blanchard and four men were charged after city police recovered a quantity of liquor stolen from a liquor store at Quilley Beach. The liquor was recovered in a routine check of a truck.

The four men will stand trial in a higher court.

Expert Insists:

Helping Indians Is a Duty For Everyone

PORT ALBERT—What should a community do to fulfil its responsibilities to its native Indians?

Black

In a Car Sitting Close Wrong

NANAIMO—William Pechnik of Nanaimo was convicted of a traffic offence and scolded by Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts in magistrate's court yesterday.

The charge was for refusing to show his driver's licence on the demand of an RCMP officer Dec. 12, the result was a one-week suspended sentence and the scolding was for allowing a driver to sit too close to driver Pechnik.

"One-arm driving is not a good thing at any time," said the magistrate. "Sitting close together is okay but not when you're driving a car."

Dr. W. G. Black, B.C. director for the federal citizenship department, answered that thorny question in a speech to the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday—and made an interesting offer, too.

The Indian Friendship Centre which is being formed here was the starting point of his talk, and Dr. Black, who is to retire this year, said he will be glad to give his services to the centre either before or after retirement.

DEEP AFFECTION

The growth of the native population, he said, is forcing Indians to leave the reserves but most have a deep affection for their hometowns and want to keep up band memberships.

"Even in communities where there is no hope of establishing centres," he said, "it is important there should be friendship programs."

INVITE THEM IN

PTAs, churches, Chambers of Commerce and other groups should invite Indians into their activities. In fact, every organization should put in its program something for native Indians.

A friendship centre such as this area's should consider a good director essential for success, said Dr. Black.

NO CONDESCENSION

The director should be a kindly, understanding person who can establish rapport with the Indians and show no vestige of condescension.

"If he has a degree in social work, so much the better," he said.

Dr. Black said the friendship centre should be kept open most of the time and become known as a social rendezvous.

REFERRAL SERVICES

There should be dances, concerts, indoor and outdoor sports, an information service, referral services to help the young people become established, and preliminary job counselling.

Dr. Black conceded traces of discrimination exist—and even more than traces in some industries.

However, if a young Indian man can show he has learned a trade, he can convince an employer of his value.

Logging Innovations

Windfalls Down The Safe Way

NITINAT — A safe, economic way to log trees blown down in B.C.'s strong windstorms is only one new idea that's working in Island logging camps of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

CZ employees have also come up with a new gimmick in the fight against forest fires and a way to take advantage of marshy areas by planting cottonwood trees.

GALES HIT HARD

The Nitinat division on the west Island coast tackled windfalls (blown-down trees) after gales last October left 30,000-600 board feet of merchantable timber on the ground.

A ring cut in each tree leaves a central core 20 inches wide. A hole then is drilled in the stump a foot below the saw cut, dynamite goes into the hole and bang! The stump's shattered but the tree is blown clear.

EVERYONE WORKED

Everyone in the Nitinat camp worked on the idea, led by manager Bill Walmsley, feller Tom Krumpic, bull-bucker Joe Conit, powderman Doug Phye and grade foreman Ed Davis.

Larry Lehtonen, a CZ master mechanic at Courtenay, has a quick way to move 7,200 gallons of water to a fire scene.

Two 3,600-gallon tanks built on stilts have been set up. A firetruck, minus trailer, is backed under them, the tanks are secured and the truck is on its way. The tanks now are at Nitinat.

MARSHY AREAS

Cottonwood trees which can grow up to 12 feet a year are being planted in the Courtenay division because Douglas fir seedlings do not have a chance to survive in marshy areas.

Division forester Norman Pelton is running the show. Cottonwoods planted this spring should reach pulpwood size in 30 years.

Police Lose Foundation

NANAIMO—The foundation is being knocked out from under RCMP headquarters.

Workmen started this week to sledge hammer their way through a thick basement wall in preparation for the enlargement of storage space in the basement.

The building has been occupied by the RCMP since July, 1956. Police offices were situated on Fitzwilliam Street before the move to the present location on Pridemont Street.

Abundant marine life is found in sea-scooped pools in Botanical Beach sandstone formations

Beach Battle

Two-Week Cool-Off Suggested

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Recreation Minister Kiernan yesterday called for a two-week cooling-off period in the boiling Botanical Beach controversy before he tries to solve the public access problem.

Kiernan

Word that the world-famous beach had been closed to the public by a private owner of adjacent land was made public in an exclusive Colonist story by outdoors editor Alec Merriman yesterday.

Mr. Kiernan said it was apparent from the story that friction generated on both sides of the access battle made it inadvisable to attempt anything official until tempers have been given a chance to cool.

He said he was concerned over lack of public access to the beautiful and scientifically valuable beach and added: "I don't like to see this kind of thing go by default."

Marine life experts, meanwhile, were alarmed at word that a booming ground lease has been approved along a quarter mile of shore adjacent to the beach.

Poisons the Water

Victoria University biology head Gordon Fields said bark dropping from the logs settles on the sea bottom and poisons the water.

Provincial museum director Clifford Carl agreed a booming ground near the beach "would be very destructive," he told the Colonist.

Dr. Fields said the threatened destruction of marine life was "shocking."

He recalled that in 1960 a group of International Botanical Year scientists assembled at the beach from all over the world.

The marine garden at the beach was the first biological station on the west coast, he said, and became the subject of a two-volume treatise by U.S. university researchers.

Mr. Kiernan confirmed that a previous owner of the land around the beach, A. G. Manzer & Sons Ltd., had offered the property to the province for park purposes in 1962.

"But there was nothing philanthropic in the gesture," he said. The Manzer interests had bought 571 acres in the area in 1956 at an average price of $87 an acre and in 1962 offered 16 acres to the province for more than $1,000 an acre, he said.

"There was certainly no benevolence in the offer to the department in 1962."

While the 16-acre slice around Botanical Beach was being offered to the government for $22,000 it was simultaneously offered to UBC for $16,000 the minister recalled.

"The department took a dim view of being offered the land at one price while it was being offered elsewhere for less," he added.

He said a timber swap proposal whereby B.C. would have gained the beach property in return for timber granted elsewhere had involved "an excessive asking price in terms of timber."

Government Powerless

It might be unfortunate that a booming ground license had been granted in waters adjacent to the beach, he continued, but the government was now powerless to stop the present owners from going ahead with logging and booming plans.

He pointed out that a foreshore reserve in the name of his department protects the beach itself from direct ravages of industry.

Officials of his department were investigating the status of a road through the property but doubted that it had ever been gazetted.

It was built by the army during the Second World War and probably had no official status at all.

The present owner of the property, Cefir Forest Products Ltd., has posted "no trespassing" signs throughout the area.

Rudolph Witschi, a principal in the company, said the land was posted after the public tampered with the firm's property.

Mr. Witschi threatened court action against the Colonist's outdoors editor if he continued to invite the public to visit the area through his land.

He claimed ownership to the land and Botanical Beach too.

But lands department records showed that the beach is covered by the crown reserve.

The booming ground permit was granted last March 6 and has almost two years to run. A lands official said the size of the leased land area was cut in half from the original application.

But, he admitted, the recreation and conservation department had not been asked to approve the lease before it was granted.

The crown foreshore reserve along the beach extends for a third of a mile.

'I Won't Close Beach'

Neighbor to Keep Land for Posterity

By TED GASKELL

A Victoria woman who owns nearly 700 feet of beach front property on Botanical Beach is determined that her land will be kept for public use.

Mrs. James H. Beatty, 1009 Terrace, owner of four acres of land on Botanical Beach, told the Colonist yesterday she intends to keep the land in her family, "for posterity."

She added that if she ever thought of selling, it would be to the university.

Mrs. Beatty was commenting on the threatened closure of the property by the owner of adjacent land as disclosed in a story in yesterday's Colonist.

Mrs. Beatty's former husband, the late James H. Mutter, bought the land from Dr. Josephine Tilden, in 1948.

Fire Hits Garage

While out burning an unwanted garage last night Sidney Volunteer Fire Department ended up at a real fire which all but demolished a wanted garage at 10162 Third Street.

Mrs. Hilda Melville and her son sprayed the wall of their garage before burning nearby brush but forgot to wet the roof.

The fire got into the garage. A dinghy, two mowers and tiller were demolished.

The beach has never been closed to the public, and the people of Port Renfrew have used it as a park for 40 to 50 years said Mrs. Beatty.

She has checked with the lands department and finds that there is no question of ownership and now the department is looking into access to the property.

Since the story appeared, the Colonist has been inundated with telephone calls from people protesting the closure of the beach.

Mrs. W. G. Smith of 1525 Amelia, said she was "appalled at the terrible news" and offered help if any organization is formed to prevent the closure.

"If we put up a fight, we might prevent it," she said. Mr. and Mrs. Ian Macdonald, 4784 Interurban, are both "furious" that it should be possible for a beach to be closed.

"We feel that public access through easement should be in the terms of sale of such land," they said. "We don't think this sort of thing (the closure) should be allowed. The major logging companies open their land to the public. Why should a small company try to close off the beach?"

"This man is only one taxpayer. We are hundreds of thousands."

Tom Gore, 17, of 862 Somerset, said that a group of students from Oak Bay and

Mount View High Schools are so concerned about the beach closure that they are starting a petition, to be sent to the government.

Students interested in photography, biology and cave hunting are concerned, he said.

City Tax Increase

Three Mills Only — Council Hopes

By IAN STREET

City council will attempt today to keep the increase in 1964 taxes to three mills or slightly below.

By the end of yesterday's budget cutting session the provisional $2.2 mill increase had been whittled down to slightly more than 3.1 mills.

Since this includes an $11 mill boost in school taxes, there is little prospect of further savings, but most members of council are hoping for an increase of not more than three mills.

NO HOPE

There was general agreement at the start of budget deliberations Wednesday, that no hope existed for a repeat of the 1963 achievement in holding the line on city taxes.

New sources of income in 1963, mainly in the form of provincial grants and fees, made it possible to hold the tax rate at the 1962 level of 55 mills, said city comptroller James Bramley.

SEVERAL VOTES

This year's budget contains increases in several revenue votes, "but nothing of the size that occurred in 1963," the comptroller said.

City manager Dennis Young said the current budget should include capital projects to supplement those contained in the proposed capital budget.

He added that an increase of about three mills would permit the city to carry out essential works.

SAME AMOUNT

Council eliminated $80,000 for Rose Street extension from the current budget because the same amount is contained in the capital budget to be voted on in June.

"Perhaps I'm overly optimistic," said Mr. Young, "but I'm quite satisfied in my own mind that the capital budget will be a reality before the year is out."

TAX SALE

Another $120,000 for expansion of arena facilities was offset by revenues to be taken from the tax sale lands account. A $60,000 item for a new storm drain on Belleville Street was halved.

Ald. A. W. Toome tried once more without success to earmark $8,000 towards the cost of an emergency vehicle to be operated by the fire department.

His motion to include this amount in the contingency section of the budget was defeated on a 4-4 vote.

MORE SUITED

Ald. Toome said the vehicle need not be "a plush, expensive ambulance" but something more suited to all-round emergency use carrying inhalator and other equipment.

A $10,000 item covering the city's share of the cost of a proposed metro sewer survey was cut after discussion of the latest move by the government to force establishment of a Greater Victoria sewer district.

NEW WORK

Despite the cuts, aldermen approved a lot of new work. It includes a new comfort station for Gonzales Beach, about $20,000 worth of new street lighting for Rose Street extension, two tennis courts for Beacon Hill Park, new nursery and fire equipment, a $25,000 grant to Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund and a start on a $6,000 consolidation of city by-laws.

The film is a sequel to Beach Party, which has already played in Victoria. Mr. Ashley was one of its stars and plays a leading role in the film Hod.

He is married to Deborah Walley, known for her portrayal of Gidget.

During the May 16-18 weekend, Mr. Ashley will appear on stage at the Atlas Theatre. He will also participate in the Central Saanich Up Two Mills

By DON GAIN

The tax rate in Central Saanich was set at 37.5 mills—an increase of two mills—at this week's council meeting, Reeve R. Gordon Lee said last night.

The school rate was raised .33 and the general purpose rate 1.77 mills, he said. The total includes a half-mill to be set aside for future recreation and park areas.

POLICING COSTS

Reason for the rise was increased policing costs (up one mill) and a $1,000 gift to the Alberni relief fund, the reeve said.

He told council that building inspector Ernest Lee was investigating possible new restrictions in the building bylaw to protect private property.

BYLAW LOOPHOLES

"The present code is not tight enough to give us jurisdiction over height," he said. "There are loopholes in the bylaw and we could run into trouble."

Street lights were approved for Patricia Bay Highway Intersections, Island View Beach Road, Keating Cross Road and Mount Newton Cross Road. Cost will be split with the B.C. highways department.

Tabled for consideration were applications for a foreshore lease and the erection of a nursing home.

The foreshore lease application was from Anglers Boat Rentals Ltd. who want to build a float 50 feet long and 30 feet wide at the bottom of Marchant Road.

FURTHER STUDY

Application to build a seven-bed nursing home at 1188 Marchant came from William L. Irving. Further study is required because of a possible drainage problem.

A sign will be erected at the request of residents on a Woodward Drive hill near Brentwood Chapel reading "Slow — Watch for children."

Four Youths Face High Court Trial

Four youths charged with assaulting a high-school youth earlier this month will be committed for trial Friday on charges of robbery with violence and unlawful detention.

Yesterday Magistrate William Ostler found sufficient Crown evidence to order a higher court trial for Lloyd K. DeWolfe, 1018 Balmoral; Charles Ash, 860 Parklands; Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan; and Russell Tachir, 946 Ellery.

They are charged with robbing and beating Alfred William Morgan, 19, of 3557 Saanich, after picking him up April 7 while he was hitch-hiking.

Morgan testified at their preliminary hearing Tuesday he had been forced into a car containing the youths, two of whom beat him and took $10, his watch and camera, before abandoning him in the Duranville Lake area.

Lawyers for two of the accused — Hunt and Ash — argued yesterday there was not sufficient evidence to commit their clients for trial as they had not participated in the actual beating.

Magistrate Ostler said as Hunt owned the car allegedly used in the abduction, and Ash had driven at one point during the 45-minute incident, there was evidence which if accepted by a jury, would prove common intent.

Miss Nora Lewis

Outer Wharf Wins

Woman Co-Winner At Gallery Show

By EILEEN LEABOYD

A woman who only started painting seven years ago shares top honors with a lecturer in art at Victoria University in the Art Gallery's 14th annual Jury Show.

Miss Nora M. Lewis and Mr. Don Harvey split the top prize and were each awarded a "first" rather than giving a first and second prize this year, said curator Colin Graham.

Fifty-one paintings were accepted for the show out of 228 entries.

There were also five honorable mentions — two of them done by members of the fair sex.

Edith Jones of Sidney and Pat Martin Bates of Alberta were the women, and the other honorable mentions were Betty Cickmarra and Don Harvey (again), both of Victoria, and Michael Morris of Sidney.

Abstracts and representational work were divided about 50-50. Judges were Professor Elmore O'Neil of UBC, Mr. Reginald Holmes of the Vancouver School of Art and Mr. Donald Bunce curator of the Henry Gallery, Washington.

Miss Lewis, a charming woman who took up painting on retiring from her job at the Bank of Montreal, has had a number of successes including an honorable mention in the jury show two years ago, a painting exhibited in a Fort Albera show and another at the International Show for Amateurs at the Beaverbrook Gallery, Fredericton.

Her winning painting is a small landscape (about 18x15), intensely colorful, vivid and bold in the use of paint. The scene — the outer wharf.

"I don't think I have ever had such a tremendous thrill," said Miss Lewis after her award was announced at the gallery. "It is wonderfully encouraging."

London-born, Miss Lewis went as a baby to the Yukon, lived briefly in Vancouver and then came to Victoria for the main part of her schooling.

She states she always had an urge to paint, but did not have the time until her retirement from the bank.

Her first lessons were from Jan Zach, then Herbert Steiner, with whom she still studies.

Miss Lewis lives in a pretty cottage on Victoria Avenue, and she has converted the garage into a big-windowed studio.

"The only trouble with that big studio window," smiles Nora Lewis, "is that I see the garden through it too, and pulling weeds and looking after my flowers and vegetables is a frequent interruption."

Eating High!

Britain's highest restaurant—520 feet above the ground in the new London Post Office Tower—is to be opened soon by Billy Butlin, the holiday-camp king.

The restaurant will seat 100 in a specially-designed dining room in the 570-foot-high tower. It is air-conditioned and the circular floor will revolve slowly to give diners a constantly changing panorama of London. The tower itself is needed to carry new trunk telephone and television broad-band systems and has to be high enough to ensure an unobstructed "line of sight" for radio paths, clear of the many tall buildings now being built in London.

'Princess-All-Alone' Weeps at Wedding

By ROBERT MUSEL
ROME (UPI) — Rebellious Princess Irene of Holland, weeping and close to fainting from emotional exhaustion, Wednesday married the son of a pretender to the throne of Spain in a Roman Catholic ceremony that cut her off from family and country.

The mother of the bride, Queen Juliana, and other members of the Protestant Dutch royal family channeled the wedding of Irene, 24, to 23-year-old Prince Don Carlos Hugo of Bourbon-Parma.

As a result there was no one to give the bride away and Don Carlos escorted the Princess down the aisle on his arm. The Italians called her "Princess-All-Alone."

The emotional weeks of trying to persuade her mother that she was not being used as a pawn in a political game for the Spanish monarchy suddenly overwhelmed the princess as she passed through cheering crowds to enter Rome's St. Mary Major Basilica.

A few hours earlier, the princess had pleaded again with her mother in an early morning telephone call to fly to Rome for the ceremony at the last minute. But it was in vain, and as she left the automobile that brought her to the church with Don Carlos, she suddenly sagged and seemed about to fall to the ground in a faint.

But Don Carlos slipped an arm around her to keep her from toppling and in a moment the princess was able to nod reassuringly at her prince. But tears wet her cheeks as she entered the great church on his arm. She wept during the ceremony—part of which her mother and father and three sisters watched on a live television broadcast to the Netherlands.

Ironically, a power failure hit the Dutch castle and darkened the royal screen shortly after Irene promised to take her prince "for better or for worse." But Queen Juliana was reported "much moved" by what the managed to see.

The bride was resplendent in a white silk Pierre Balmain gown trimmed with heirloom lace, the famous half-million dollar diamond tiara of the Bourbon-Parma glittering in her hair.

Her face tear-stained, her voice scarcely audible, Irene uttered the Spanish yes—"si"—that irrevocably ended all her rights and privileges as a member of the Protestant House of Orange. She had been second to Crown Princess Beatrix in succession to the Dutch throne when she converted to Roman Catholicism last January for the love of the Spanish prince.

Queen Juliana and the Dutch royal family stayed away from the wedding after an irreconcilable conflict with the Bourbon-Parma family over the way it should be staged. The Dutch wanted a quiet wedding in a quiet church in a quiet corner of Holland. The Bourbon-Parma insisted on St. Mary Major—one of Rome's biggest and richest churches with many connections with Spain.

As the Dutch queen had feared, followers of Don Carlos' father, Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma, turned the day into a demonstration of their belief that he is the rightful king of Spain. Hundreds of followers travelled from Spain to throng the church, some of the women in lace mantillas over high tortoise shell combs.

"Long Live the King of Spain," they shouted first at Prince Xavier and then at Don Carlos.

The Spanish and Dutch royal colors were everywhere around the church and the Grand Hotel, where the reception was held. Red berets—a symbol of the Carlist movement—were waved by scores of men who had flown to the ceremony in chartered planes from Spanish strongholds of the movement.

The bitterness between the families of the bride and groom meant that no member of the other ruling European houses attended the ceremony which was performed in the ornate Borghese Chapel by 84-year-old Paolo Cardinal Giobbe.

Princess Irene, who had laughed and chattered with guests at a pre-wedding dinner last night, smiled wanly as she left the Grand Hotel for the church.

But somewhere along the short six-block ride the veneer cracked. The princess was in tears by the time she and Don Carlos moved through the nave to the Borghese Chapel where Cardinal Giobbe, clad in the 350-year-old vestments of a Borghese pope—waited before the altar of marble, gold, silver and lapis lazuli.

Writes Book

HALIFAX (CP) — Kay Hill, who received $1 for a story she wrote for her Sunday school paper when she was 12, has had her first book published. Glimpses is a collection of fictional Irish stories based on early Micmac legends. It has been adapted for children's television.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This is a true story, so help me.

Our next door neighbors, the Kellys, went to Europe for three weeks. They left their cocker spaniel "Lucky" with us. The first week Lucky didn't eat much. He was lonesome for the Kellys. The second week his appetite perked up, but then on Friday he wouldn't eat pieces of left-over roast. He just drank his water.

The next day Lucky ate fine and continued to eat well all through the week. When Friday came around he turned up his nose at the hamburger and refused to touch it.

Jokingly, my husband said, "You know, that darned dog eats like the Kellys—no meat on Friday." We all laughed. Just for the heck of it I opened a can of sardines and put it down for Lucky. He cleaned up the tin.

Now, I ask you, Ann Landers, can a dog know when it is Friday. I wouldn't have believed it was possible, but I'm not so sure now. Comment, please — ASTONISHED.

Dear Astonished: Dogs do NOT know when it is Friday. Perhaps there is a logical explanation for this fascinating story, but I don't know what it is. Maybe the Kellys will be able to come up with the answer when they get home.

Dear Ann Landers: Our teenage daughter has just told us she is pregnant. She says the boy will not marry her. I don't believe she knows who the father of the child is. She wants to go to a home for unwed mothers and put the child up for adoption.

My husband and I want her to stay home and have the baby. If she doesn't want the baby after it is born, we would like to adopt it. The only thing that worries me is that I am in my middle fifties and not in the best of health. This daughter has made me terribly nervous. I'm not sure I have the patience and strength to take on the responsibilities of a newborn baby.

You seem to be able to see things so clearly, Ann. Will you kindly tell me what to do? — JUST HEARTSICK.

Dear Just Heartsick: Please, for the sake of everyone involved (particularly the unborn child) let your daughter make this decision.

In my opinion, it would be far better if the girl followed her plan. Your proposal could mean disaster for all of you.

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter was asked to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of a girl she does not know very well. If my daughter says "yes" this will be the seventh wedding in the past three years in which she was asked to take part.

I know it is an honor, but it is also a heavy financial burden for middle-income people. Gwendolyn is in college, not a working girl, so you can see what the problems are.

Bridesmaids' gowns, as you know, are selected by the bride and her mother. The girls have to pay for them whether they like them or not. Then there are shoes, headpieces and gloves to buy. Only one out of the six gowns Gwendolyn has bought looked good enough to wear elsewhere.

I am writing to ask if you feel it would be a slap in the face to the girl if Gwendolyn refused to serve unless she has a voice in the selection of the dresses. May we hear from you? — IRRITATED MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Better Gwendolyn should say she is unable to serve — and be honest about the reason.

The bride and her mother do indeed (and should) select the bridesmaids' gowns. Gwendolyn would be way out of line if she asked for a voice in the selection.

Ladies Don't Win

HAMILTON (CP) — A six-year-old girl who plays tick-tack-toe to win probably is a tomboy, according to results of research among 1,000 children. At an anthropological conference at McMaster University, Prof. John Roberts of Cornell University said the results indicate a lady plays the game to draw.

Zesty Salad Recipes For Springtime Fare

By BAHIL FITZGERALD

Spring is now well under way and many people are thinking of salads and desserts that are suitable for the warmer weather. Good salads are always welcome and here are two recipes that are tried and true favorites which get us away from the proverbial tossed green salad.

Take one pound of beets — wash well and cook in water to cover until they are tender. Drain and allow to cool. Peel the beets and cut into thin slices. Peel two medium size onions and slice thinly and arrange the beets and onion in alternate layers in a jar or crock.

In a saucepan combine one cup of wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon of sugar and 1/2 teaspoon each of salt and caraway seeds. Bring the mixture to the boil and pour over the salad. Keep in the refrigerator for 24 hours. Serve with cold cuts.

CUCUMBER SALAD

Cut two medium cucumbers into thin slices. Arrange the slices in a bowl and sprinkle with one tablespoon of salt. Allow to stand for one hour. Drain the cucumbers and press them in a clean towel to remove the surplus moisture. In a bowl combine 1/3 cup of commercial sour cream, 2 tablespoons of wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons of chopped fresh dill and 1 teaspoon of sugar. Marinate the cucumber slices in this mixture for two or three hours in the refrigerator.

In the dessert field a good trifle is always welcome:

STRAWBERRY TRIFLE

Line the bottom of a cut glass bowl with 1-inch layer of day old sponge or white layer cake. Cover with 1 cup of strawberries. Mix 1/2 cup of heavy cream, whipped with 2 cups of cool soft custard and spread half this mixture over the strawberries. Top with 1 cup of crushed macaroons. Add a second layer of cake and pour 1/2 cup of sherry over the mixture. Spread the remainder of the cream and custard mixture over the cake and garnish with strawberries.

In case you have mislaid your recipe for soft custard, here is a good one:

SOFT CUSTARD

In the top of a double boiler beat the yolks of 4 eggs lightly, stir in 1/2 cup of sugar and a dash of salt. Gradually add 2 cups of milk which has been scalded with a 1 inch piece of vanilla bean. Put the pan over hot water and cook until the custard thickens. Allow the custard to cool, stirring occasionally and chill until ready to use.

If you don't have the vanilla bean handy, use vanilla flavoring to taste. This custard is always good with stewed fruit, particularly rhubarb.
Bon appetit!

His Hush-Hush Invention
Boon to All Mankind

WIMBORNE, England — Edgar Bates, a 71-year-old inventor, has completed the hush-hush project which has kept him busy for the past 10 years — a lavatory seat warmer.

The warmer could sell for less than one pound ($2.80), and what a boon it would be," said Bates.

VANCOUVER — Last remaining Victoria Cross winner serving in the Canadian army, Sgt. E. A. (Smoky) Smith, retires this month after 21 years' service. He has been recruiting sergeant here for the last 13 years, and won his VC in 1944 during action with the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada in Italy.

NEW YORK — Melvin Osterman, ousted judge of the state court of claims, was sentenced Wednesday to a year in jail for conspiring to bribe Martin J. Epstein, former head of the state liquor authority, to fix cases before the authority.

KAMLOOPS — British Columbia Progressive Conservative leader Davis Fulton said Wednesday the province should get on with work on the Yellowhead Highway.

He said work on the route between Jasper, Alta., and Kamloops, about 300 miles, should begin even though the federal government has turned thumbs down on federal assistance to a second Trans-Canada Highway.

In Edmonton Charles Grant, director of the Yellowhead Route Association, said the federal decision would not alter development of the route.

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone — prime minister of this West African country is Albert Michael Margal, succeeding his brother Sir Milton who died Tuesday.

LONDON — Soviet Premier Khrushchev will get a new head soon—that is the wax model of him at Madame Tussaud's wax museum, which shows him 10 years younger.

CAIRO — Russian Premier Khrushchev will arrive at Alexandria by sea May 9 for a 16-day visit to Egypt.

VANCOUVER — Richard Probe went to jail for three years Tuesday for cashing forged cheques, but tried to save his career, a young mother charged jointly with him from a similar fate.

"It was my idea, not hers," he told Magistrate Gordon Scott. The woman was found guilty and will be sentenced May 6.

UNION, N.J. — Police here have caught a thief suspect with his pants down—literally. The burglar who broke into a drug store Tuesday lost his trousers trying to squeeze through a roof vent to make his getaway. A wallet in the pocket identified the owner as Robert E. Pinkiewicz. Police found Pinkiewicz hiding under a parked car—sans trousers.

NEW LONDON, Conn. — There must be something in a trading stamp catalogue that some thieves have their heart set on. Police said burglars broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benoit Givens and took 15 books of trading stamps but did not bother money or jewelry.

WINNIPEG — Mrs. Anne Boyd of Winnipeg was sentenced Wednesday to three months in jail on a charge of attempted abortion. Court had been told the abortion attempt resulted in the suicide of an 18-year-old youth when the girl involved fainted and he thought she had died.

VANCOUVER — Highways Minister Gagliardi has announced that a 12-mile section of the new Port Mann Freeway will be opened to traffic Friday morning, between Cassiar Street in Vancouver and Cape Horn, in Coquitlam.

City Contract Aids
Union's B.C. Goal

A Victoria garment manufacturing company yesterday signed a labor contract which the union involved describes as a step toward industry-wide bargaining by the union in B.C.

Hall and Company and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America signed a contract calling for a 33-month contract with three annual wage increases of five cents in the guaranteed hourly minimum paid to the 20 piecework employees affected.

The workers, who are paid in three classes, previously had guaranteed minimums of $1.20, $1.15 and $1.10 an hour. The increases negotiated will raise the minimums to $1.35, $1.30 and $1.25 by April 30, 1966.

Chris Trower of Vancouver, business agent for Local 178 of the union, said after signing the contract in Victoria yesterday that the increases will bring the rates paid by the company almost to parity with rates negotiated by the union in Vancouver.

He said the odd length of the contract is designed so that it will expire at the same time as Vancouver contracts.

He said the union, which negotiates blanket agreements in other parts of Canada and the United States, is trying to bring a best industry-wide bargaining in B.C. and, eventually, Canada.

Hall and Company is the oldest garment manufacturing firm west of Winnipeg.

Body Found

OTTAWA (CP) — The body of Capt. G. J. Ross Flewin of Vancouver, 35-year-old army pilot missing since Jan. 17, was found Wednesday in the wreckage of his small aircraft near Bracebridge, Ont., army headquarters reported.

An RCAF helicopter spotted the wreckage. Members of the RCAF rescue team from Trenton, Ont., accompanied by the local coroner, were sent to the site.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A Negro woman filed Wednesday as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the 1st District of Arkansas—the heavily segregationist Mississippi Delta country. She is Mrs. Florence Katheryn Clay, a widow who operates a funeral home.

KELOWNA — Amateur astronomer John Tanner said he sighted three objects flying in a V formation near here Tuesday night. He said the objects were round and not too large. He said they were visible for only about 10 seconds.

STUTTGART, Germany — Soviet Russia has claimed another record. Gen. Mikhail Zenski, a fire chief from Russia, said at an international firemen's meeting here his country has a record 6,000,000 volunteer fire fighters.

LONDON — Pat Arrowsmith, leading British anti-nuclear campaigner, was sent to prison for six months Wednesday for her part in an Easter demonstration at a U.S. Air Force base near London. Miss Arrowsmith, 33, is field secretary of Britain's Committee of 100.

Firms to Appeal
Merger Denial

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday granted Norcan Oil Limited and Gridoll Freehold Leases Limited leave to appeal against an Alberta Appeal Court judgment refusing to allow a merger of the two companies.

The merger was approved by Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns of the Alberta Supreme Court. However, his decision was reversed by the Appeal Court.

Attack Jury
Excluded
Second Time

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — An assize court jury was excluded from the courtroom Wednesday for the second time as a legal argument continued in the trial of James Leonard Meeker on a charge of rape.

Mr. Justice T. W. Brown instructed the jury to return to the courtroom today.

Tuesday, the first day of the trial, a 40-year-old grandmother told the court that she was repeatedly assaulted by two men near Langley, on or about Jan. 7 last year.

She described how she had accepted the offer of a short ride to her home near Chilliwack, then was taken to a bushy area and repeatedly attacked during the night.

Woman Juror Afraid
Of Lockup

CHICAGO (UPI) — A letter from a woman juror who was afraid of being locked up for the night sparked demands for a mistrial in James E. Hoffa's $20,000,000 fraud trial Wednesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Richard E. Austin turned down a defence motion for a mistrial after one of the four jurors who had been tentatively accepted said she couldn't stand being kept in a locked hotel room under the surveillance of a special corps of U.S. marshals.

Cancer 'Cure' Onus
Shifted to Ottawa

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons said in a statement Wednesday it does not oppose the use of French biochemist Gaston Naessens' leukemia vaccine, providing "the effectiveness of this product has been recognized by the federal authorities."

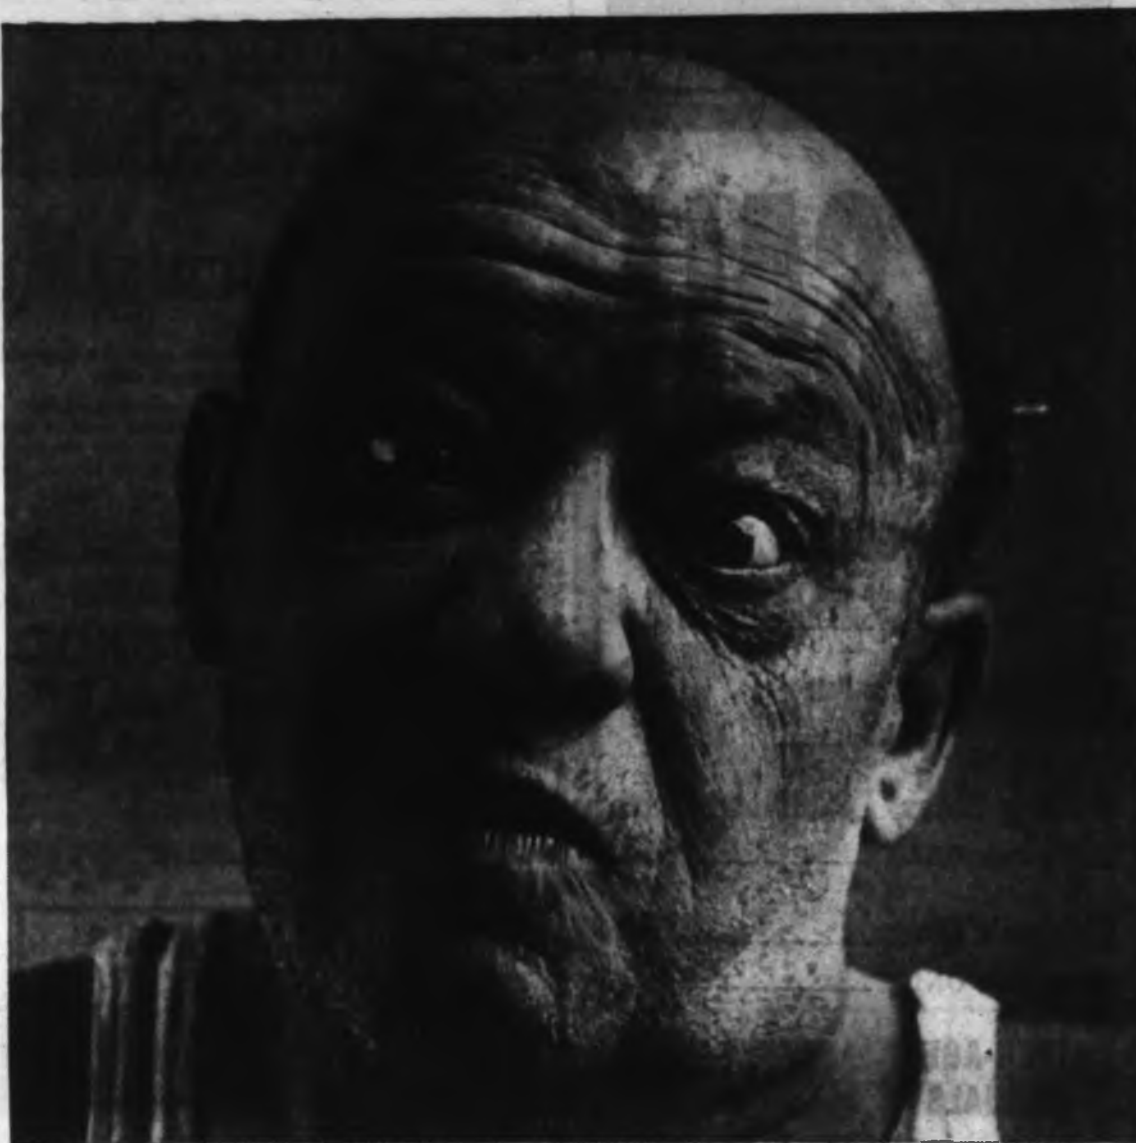

Mr. Naessens, who claims his vaccine — called Anablast — can cure leukemia, arrived in Montreal earlier this week accompanied by Montreal restaurateur Rene Guymener, who asked him to use the vaccine on his 3½-year-old son Rene.

"It is up to the federal government, charged with protecting public health, to define which drugs or medicines can be put on the market," the college statement said.

How do you shave when the bathroom is occupied?

- ☐ Go to the gas station on the corner.
- ☐ Build another bathroom.
- ☐ Use the sink in the living room.

or

- ☐ Get a cordless Lektronic II and shave wherever you want.

The Lektronic II is self-powered. It works upstairs, downstairs, in any room in the house. Even outdoors.

So forget about sinks, cords and outlets. With the Lektronic II you get a powerful shave anywhere.

Energy cells store up power for plenty of fast, comfortable shaves. To recharge, simply plug in the special cord overnight.

If you forget to recharge, just plug in the cord and shave. There's no waiting. No half-shaved face.

Like all Remingtons, the Lektronic II has adjustable roller combs for comfort. And a more powerful motor. And surgical steel cutters.

But the big feature is cordless convenience. Great for around the house, up at the cottage, the traveling man.

Off with Their Heads

with a permanent kink in the stem, and just like a kink in your garden hose, this obstructs and restricts the free flow of sap, and the vine never grows with quite its normal vigor.

I always make a practice of putting a few bushy little twigs in among my young sweet peas, just to keep them upright and on their feet until they can reach the netting. This line of twigs serves another purpose too — it breaks the force of those chilly winds we often get in late April and early May.

It has been my experience that sweet peas make healthier growth right out in the open rather than when grown against a house wall or fence. They are less prone to mildew, for one thing, and it is probable, due to better air circulation around the vines.

Red spider mite is a frequent visitation when the vines are grown up against a sun-baked, south-facing wall, as these microscopic sap-suckers revel in a hot, dry atmosphere. In such locations, it is a good idea to wet down the leaves and buds of the vine and the wall behind them every time you have the hose out.

Letters Mixed Blessing

I open it. First, a quick over-all peek, to get the general lay of the land, the overall outline and impact. Crumby paper. Official Letterhead and all that, portentous.

"Dear Mr. Crosby: I am taking the liberty of writing you with regard to a venture with which we are connected. . . ." (Oh, my God! The very word "venture" means work, decision, co-operation. My eyes flick down to the bottom.) "I would be pleased to answer whatever further questions you may have."

The beginning paragraph and the last paragraph is what I always read. My desk is strewn with letters whose addressees I have read just to find out the letter's date. Later, That's the hard, dull routine of a letter.

The excitement of the thing is over. It's not love or warmth middle. With letters written in cursive, I haven't read past the first line of the letter. Much later, That's the hard, dull routine of a letter.

By SIBELIAN GRAHAM

The excitement of the thing is over. It's not love or warmth or an invitation to a party. It's hard work — and one can always postpone that, can't one?

There it sits, that letter, unanswered, uncoped. Perhaps unread. Its date, March 10, 1964, is a standing reproach. (I have some from '63 still uncoped with).

I love getting letters. Doesn't everyone? It's just what's inside that's the core of the problem. Surely the post office — now that they have all those marvelous electronic machines — could do something about this.

A quick look inside by the electronic brain and in ten millionths of a second it's rejecting the things with the wrong letter typed in billionths of a second.

"This kind of request only upsets Mr. Crosby and he never answers these things anyway. Why don't you try Joe Jones, who is much more mature about his mail?"

you should be ready for the obvious answer: The grandchildren's own style of life, of course.

Yet, if that way of living is to be deep and colorful, it will slowly attach itself to the ideas, styles and values it has imbibed from its traditions; it will, as it matures, reaccept many of the ideas against which it had rebelled in haste.

It will pioneer here and there, crossing a few new frontiers; but one day it will recall that "there is nothing new under the sun" and that amazement realize that its "discovery" was long known to ancient predecessors.

One philosopher has taught: "A clash of doctrines is not a disaster—it is an opportunity." So with the rebellions of children. Inevitably, in the process of maturation, they must rebel.

They will kick over some traces of their parents, but we ought to expect that. But they Rather should they cultivate the more lasting, more ethical and more sensible authority of influence; even then they must expect to be challenged. But then, that challenge will more likely be an opportunity, not a disaster.

Oak Bay High Band Off on Six-Day Tour

The 54-member Oak Bay High School concert band will leave this morning for a six-day tour of Washington and Oregon.

The students will stay in the homes of American students and will probably extend classes with them during the day," director David Dunnett said last night.

Public and school concerts will be given in Portland and other centres, he said.

The students will leave Oak Bay High in two buses at 7:45 a.m. and will be accompanied by three teachers and a registered nurse.

In addition to Mr. Dunnett the teachers are band manager Mrs. Janet Vining and Lawrence Johns. Mrs. Johns is going as nurse.

Beatles' Visit To Vancouver Still Tentative

Negotiations are going on to book the Beatles into Vancouver's Empire Stadium but the date is still to be confirmed, said John Evans, stadium manager.

Stadium management has discussed the appearance, Aug. 22, of the English singing quartet with the Montreal booking agency handling the Beatles' Canadian tour, but confirmation, promised for Monday or Tuesday, hadn't been received last night.

A Vancouver newspaper said the asking fee was $20,000 or 60 per cent of the gross gate, whichever was greater, but Mr. Evans said the stadium knows nothing of these financial arrangements but is only concerned with the rental of the building.

Citizenship Ceremony

Coffee for 24 Canadians

Twenty-four people, from 10 countries, officially became Canadians yesterday—and immediately took a coffee break in accordance with an old Canadian custom.

They were immigrants who have completed five years' residence in Canada and passed examinations entitling them to a certificate of citizenship.

After a ceremony in County Court yesterday before Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, they were guests of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Citizenship Council at a coffee party.

Those receiving certificates were:

Germany: Rosa Hoffman, 1032 McGregor, The Ukraine; Katharina Ismer, 1527 Arrow, Germany; Willem Kuyvenhoven, 1697 Knight, Holland; Peter Liedtke, 5843 Old West Saanich, Germany; Svein Overholt and Anny Overholt, 3976 Wilkinson, Norway;

Air Talks Go On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. and Canadian negotiators met for their second day here Wednesday in talks aimed at improving commercial air service between the two countries.

The private talks, to review the U.S.-Canadian air transport services agreement of 1949, are expected to last a week or more.

The late President John F. Kennedy had Canadian-born Harvard professor John Kenneth Galbraith study the problem. Galbraith reported that the present air agreement has created inconvenience for passengers and inefficient operation for air lines.

Beatles Make Movie Amid Utter Mayhem

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—The making of the Beatles' first movie, supposed to be a rush job, moves ahead at a snail's pace.

On the set, it's mass hysteria; outside it's mob violence. Occasionally the outsiders get inside and the scene defies comparison with anything since they quit turning out the old cream-pie - in - the-eye comedies.

When this happens, the man with the megaphone cries halt. London hoolies, like so many Keystone Kops, skitter across the set to intercept the invaders, dozens of screaming girls in hot pursuit of their mop-topped idols.

security of a small back room and resume a continuing card game until the coast is clear.

Finally the scene is set again and the Beatles, by now barking about in the background, are corralled by indulgent assistants and herded into the spotlight.

Then a sign, one of the props collapses. Just as it is repaired a light bulb, for no apparent reason, bursts.

And when this happens, the man with the megaphone cries halt. London hoolies, like so many Keystone Kops, skitter across the set to intercept the invaders, dozens of screaming girls in hot pursuit of their mop-topped idols.

movie of the Beatles making a movie.

Only the Beatles, apparently, are not bugged by all the high-pitched confusion. To them making a movie, like everything else, is just a big laugh. They happily admit they can't act but in this film, A Hard Day's Night, it doesn't matter—they're playing themselves.

Aside from the fans, the movie makers have been harassed by union troubles that developed when other actors discovered the 330 happy fans admitted to the balcony to provide the agonized sound effects were not being paid. Finally the management cut the bit players to 150, expelled the rest, and paid the union rates of about $10 a day, plus meals.

Author Alan Owen, a Welshman who like the Beatles was raised in Liverpool, travelled with them for several weeks before starting the movie script. He admits the plot, centring around difficulties the Beatles encounter on a trip to London for a television appearance, is pretty thin. But the movie will have seven songs, including several not previously released.

Owen, known to Canadians through the CBC productions of his TV scripts, including After Paul McCartney—he's the one the Beatles and The Stags, says with the choirboy face is the most adult member of the foursome.

"He has a keen sense of responsibility," says Owen, while John Lennon, at 23 the senior partner, "is just a happy anarchist."

Drummer Ringo Starr, inclined to stay quietly in the background, is the most under-rated of the Beatles, says the author.

"Often, in his pictures, he looks a little dopey but in fact he is very sharp—he has a great sense of humor."

Of George Harrison, Owen says: "He's just a wonderful guy. He's the easiest fellow in the world to get along with. A marvellous disposition."

The original idea was to rush the movie through by June and give it speedy, world-wide distribution in case the Beatles' popularity started to sag.

But since then the group has jumped back into the British top 10 with two new songs, taken over several places in the United States list, sparked riots in Australia and mob scenes in Toronto among fans seeking tickets for their forthcoming tours.

So it seems there will still be lots of fans around late in July, the film's new release date.

'12-Mile' Bill Senate-Bound

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill that will give the federal government full powers to enforce a unilateral 12-mile fishing limit along Canadian coasts will be introduced in the Senate Thursday or Friday, Fisheries Minister Robichaud said today.

Foreign fishermen will have to stay outside the new limit. Mr. Robichaud said action was being started in the Senate as a time-saving measure aimed at getting full parliamentary approval for the legislation by May 15.

BIG BACKLOG

The Commons already has a large backlog of legislation and likely would be unable to tackle the fishing limit bill for some time. If it was introduced in the Commons it would not reach the Senate until after Commons approval. In addition, the Senate route may prove faster if it allows the bill to go through the Commons without referral to a committee.

Last year Prime Minister

Pearson set mid-May as the target date for establishing the 12-mile zone, an election pledge of the Liberals in the 1963 campaign.

The fishing limit now is three miles, with the so-called "territorial sea."

AFFECTS 12 COUNTRIES

Mr. Robichaud said negotiations are continuing with 12 countries that are due to be affected by the new zone. They are the United States, Russia, Japan, France, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Denmark, Italy, Iceland, West Germany and Britain.

The government's plan is to draw the new line on a "headland to headland" basis, thus extending it well beyond 12 miles from some parts of the shoreline.

SEVERAL ATTEMPTS

The bill is expected to go before a senate committee for detailed study after it has received second reading in the chamber.

Canada has made several attempts in recent years to get an international agreement to extend fishing limits. Last year the Pearson administration announced it had decided to take the action on its own.

New York Still Melting Pot

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City, once called the melting pot for immigrants, still has large groups of racial, ethnic and foreign-descent minorities.

The city and its suburbs have more Jews than Israel—about 2,300,000. Negroes make up about 14 per cent of the total population of 7,780,000. Puerto Ricans, the fastest growing group, are estimated to number 700,000.

Spanish is a second language on signs, magazine racks and billboards in many areas.

The largest U.S. city is constantly changing. The Italian and Irish neighborhoods have diminished. The borough of Queens, site of the world's fair, has a growing Negro section. Manhattan's Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section are the homes of most of the city's 1,000,000 Negroes. More Negroes live in New York than in any other U.S. city.

Back Ache Made Ivan Terrible?

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The question arose Monday whether an aching back may have set off some of those monumental rages of Ivan the Terrible.

Mikhail Gerasimov, the noted Soviet anthropologist-sculptor, told a press conference that a study of the bones of the historic Russian tyrant disclosed that he had a disease which made it difficult for him either to stand or bend over.

Gerasimov has been given the task of making a life-like bust of the 16th-century Czar. To help him he has Ivan's skeleton, removed from Arkhangelsk Church in the Kremlin last summer. Ivan died in 1584, leaving a mixed reputation of great progress and great butchery.

The sculptor had disclosed previously that Ivan was fat with big eyes and a low forehead.

At his death at 54, he weighed 200 pounds.

Gerasimov, a plump little white-haired man, said the personal smile on Ivan's face was due to an underlying jaw.

The question naturally arose as to whether Ivan's aching back set off the rages in which he took the lives of friends and foes alike. His eldest son died from blows struck at a moment of rage.

As a scientist Gerasimov declined to hazard an opinion. But on the basis of Gerasimov's statement Monday and previous accounts of his research it appeared that Ivan was a very uncomfortable man, especially after he passed 40. Gerasimov deduced Ivan had lost all of his agility late in his life.

Gerasimov disclosed also that much of his experience in reconstructing faces came from police work. He estimated he had reconstructed 250 faces, both for historic research and to aid police.

He said he had reconstructed the head of Tamerlane when his body had been dug up in 1941 in Samarkand after being buried for five centuries. The body was removed during a survey of damage by local flooding to the burial chamber.

U.S. Diplomacy Goes Bicultural

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—The status of the U.S. consular office here is being changed to that of a consulate-general, effective June 1, a press release from the U.S. Information Service said.

The news of the diplomatic change didn't draw as much comment as the fact that it was written in French.

Senator on Tourism:

Try Courtesy—It's Cheap

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Crerar (L.-Manitoba) said Wednesday that courtesy and consideration are the best two methods of promoting Canada's tourist industry.

He said in Senate debate on a motion to set up a committee on tourism that a satisfied tourist is the best advertisement to persuade other tourists to come to Canada.

CONSIDERATION
"It doesn't cost anything for Canadians to be courteous to visitors and to show them every consideration."

The committee, when established, will study the activities of various agencies concerned with promoting the tourist industry and attracting people from other countries to Canada.

SENSITIVE DAYS
Senator Crerar suggested increased federal-provincial co-operation in this field. But he

Train Wreck Kills One

PRAGUE (Reuters)—One person was killed and several others injured when a Prague-bound express train collided with a freight train in Slovakia early Tuesday, the official Czech news agency Ceteka reported.

Reeve Murphy:

Saanich Not Ignoring School Referendums

Saanich council is most definitely not indifferent to the coming Greater Victoria School District 61 capital spending referendums, Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy said last night.

He said he expects Saanich council, at its regular meeting Monday night, to give official endorsement to the $6,737,254 Referendum 6 and the $158,379 Referendum 7, just as it recently endorsed a referendum called by Saanich School District 63.

Reeve Murphy was replying to criticism of the absence of municipal delegates from a meeting called Tuesday by the District 61 school board to explain the referendum to municipal representatives.

ONLY REPRESENTATIVE

Victoria Ald. A. W. Toome was the only municipal representative to attend, and only Oak Bay notified the board in advance that none of its representatives was able to attend the meeting.

Reeve Murphy said Saanich council members had to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to discuss Saanich budget matters, and this made it impossible for them to attend the 5 p.m. school board meeting.

He supposed Enquist had had similar problems.

He said it must have been a slip-up which caused the municipality to neglect to inform the board that no Saanich representatives could be present.

Referendum 6 is, among many other things, to provide for construction of more than 125 new classrooms and other teaching areas in School District 61. Referendum 7 is to provide the additional funds necessary to buy the University of Victoria's Paul Building for a board administrative centre.

Research Consultant For School Board

A research consultant will be employed by School District 61 in September.

Kenneth Bloomfield, former Victoria High School teacher and consultant for YMCAs in Lethbridge and San Diego, will work in the department of schools superintendent John Gough, assembling and interpreting material relating to the school system.

Danish Team

Pearkes To Fete Gymnasts

A team of 24 gymnasts, who will be in Victoria to give an exhibition in Memorial Arena May 7, will have tea with Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes at Government House May 6.

The team of top Danish gymnasts—12 of each sex—are expected to arrive on the 9 a.m. ferry May 6 and will meet Health Minister Eric Martin and likely other government officials at 1:30 p.m. at the legislative buildings.

TEA PLANNED
Tea at Government House will be at 3:30 p.m.

In addition to the exhibition planned for Memorial Arena, the Danish gymnasts plan a free clinic to which persons with a professional interest in gym work are invited.

Nearly Two Years To Recoup Wages

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

By quick reckoning, it will be the better part of two years before a shipyard worker gets back in his newly-won pay increase what he lost in wages during the strike.

To take a boilermaker, the old pay rate at $2.75 an hour, multiplied by eight hours a day and 56 days in the strike, his pay loss works out at $1,276.

His $51.90 retroactive pay reduces that to $1,224.10.

STRIKE PAY

Boilermakers were reported to be getting $30 a week strike pay—considerably more than most strikers. Multiply that by the 11 weeks of the strike, and it's $330, which reduces the loss to $894.10.

He will get 15 cents an hour increased pay for 40 hours a week for the 36 weeks until Jan. 17. That works out to

He will get 25 cents in increased pay for 40 hours a week for the 41 weeks until Oct. 15. That works out to $410 and brings the loss to $268.

He will get 40 cents an hour, or $16 a week, in pay increase after Oct. 15, 1964. That $16 goes into the $268 almost 17 times—17 weeks until the loss is fully caught up.

LOST PAY

Thirty-six weeks, plus 41 weeks, plus 17 weeks makes it 94 weeks until he will have his loss back.

So far as most strikers are concerned, that's making a pretty generous allowance for strike pay. And it assumes steady work and no overtime. Of course, it also doesn't take into account any temporary jobs a worker may have had during the strike.

make sure the van you man is a GMC Handi-Van!

No matter what you deliver, GMC's all-new Handi-Van is the right van to man. Because Handi-Van delivers it more efficiently... more economically. You can load Handi-Van quicker through a big rear door opening of 16 3/4 sq. ft. And take more with Handi-Van's 2,000-lb. cargo capacity. Handi-Van handles the bulkiest loads with ease, offers you a 211 cu. ft. cavern of loadspace. Everything you take is within easy access.

You don't get involved in bothersome cargo shifting. Important, too, is the two-engine selection Handi-Van makes available to you. You get a potent combination of pep and economy from either 4-cylinder or 6-cylinder powerplant. Both give efficient operation on all kinds of deliveries. Man a Handi-Van for a year and then go over your books. We think you'll find the time and money you save as important as we do.

Classrooms Next For Campus

A $1,500,000 general classroom block is the next building planned for the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus.

The building, which is expected to be on the architect's drawing board for a year, will replace some of the classroom space which will be lost with the sale of the Lansdowne campus.

Decision to build the block was made Tuesday by the university development board.

Efrat Studies New States Of Africa

Dr. Edgar S. Efrat, University of Victoria's political science department, will study the moulding of political forces by the people of new African states this summer.

He started a four-month tour last week which will see him visit the former French colonies of North and Equatorial Africa, spending most of his time below the Sahara.

The specialist in federalism wants to examine the people after five years of independence.

The French-speaking professor is familiar with the mid-East. He served in North Africa with the British forces and went to school in Israel.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Soviet Russia has hinted it may be in the market for more Canadian wheat this year, but has not raised the subject directly, informants said Tuesday.

The spring harvest of winter wheat is expected to determine the Russian position.

Butter Price Up

Users Pay to Save

OTTAWA (UPI)—Agriculture minister Harry Hays Wednesday announced a new dairy policy that will likely result in Canadian consumers paying another cent a pound for their butter — and at the same time save the taxpayer $3,500,000.

Hays told the Commons a portion of the cost of the government's butter support price program was being transferred from the general taxpayer to the householder who uses butter.

The Agriculture Stabilization Board price, Hays said, will be set at 53 cents a pound instead of 52 cents.

Meanwhile, he said, the support price for producers will be maintained at 64 cents a pound.

Hays said that the support price for cheddar cheese will remain at 32½ cents a pound.

A payment of 3.6 cents a pound will be paid for high quality cheese — "to spur production — replacing the policy of paying 30 cents per hundredweight on milk used for cheddar production."

'Extraordinary!' U.K. Joins Dog-Eared Howl

LONDON (UPI)—The British press and dog-lovers Wednesday joined in full hue-and-cry over President Lyndon Johnson's playful act of pulling his pet beagle up by its ears to pose for pictures. One newspaper said it could hurt Johnson politically.

But Bernard Workman, chairman of the Canine Defence League, spoke up for the president.

"I don't believe that a beagle comes to any harm by picking it up by the ears," said Workman. "Their ears are particularly strong. Most people know how to handle their own dogs best."

However, in a country where even members of the royal family have been criticized for hunting birds and beasts, and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is a potent pressure group, the story was front-page news.

Virtually every London newspaper, with the exception of the Communist Daily Worker, printed stories, pictures and editorials on the incident.

The Daily Express said Johnson's "sure-footed political touch deserted him" and commented:

"Richard Nixon won the vice-presidency by being kind to dogs."

The Daily Herald said the way the president "handles his dogs has produced a large outcry (which) may cost Johnson some votes in the next presidential election."

"Dog lovers all over America are angry," said the Daily Mirror. "America's dog-lovers are in an uproar," proclaimed The Daily Mail. The Daily Sketch said Johnson "has set America by the ears."

Some British dog-lovers also protested.

"It must be painful," said a spokesman for the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals.

"This," added Raymond Rowley, chairman of the League Against Cruel Sports, "is a most extraordinary way to treat a dog."

Ticketing Officer Plasters His Pals

FORT WORTH (UPI)—An irate businessman called the police to complain that parked cars were blocking his alley.

A policeman dutifully came and plastered all the cars with parking tickets. But the cars looked familiar. He called city hall.

Police 'Liquor Orgies' Denied in Coffin Case

MONTREAL (UPI)—A Montreal hairdresser Wednesday contradicted reports that provincial police investigating the murder of three American hunters had indulged in "drinking orgies."

Jeanette Lassnat, testifying before the royal commission enquiring into the Coffin case, prosecutor Wilbert Coffin was hanged for the 1953 murder of one of the Pennsylvanians—said she was holidaying in the summer of 1954 next door to two police officers.

She identified them as Capt. J. A. Matte and Capt. Raoul Sirois and said their wives were with them.

"I was in their cabins often but I never saw a bottle of alcohol. I never saw anyone drinking," she said.

Earlier witnesses had claimed there had been heavy drinking by the provincial police officers while they probed the murder.

Of Matte, the witness said: "He was always very charming—but so could he could give you a cold."

She said her cabin was in the Perce area, site of the Coffin trial.

The commission continues hearings here today and then returns to Quebec City for hearings starting May 4.

Japanese Ships

Order Halts Dock Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial supreme court Justice Angelo Branca Wednesday granted an injunction to halt a 24-hour longshore strike scheduled for April 30 on cargo ships of Japanese registry in B.C. ports.

The Shipping Federation of B.C., representing the main shipping companies operating out of B.C. ports, said in a press release that the federal minister of labor and trade and commerce had been requested by the federation to intervene to prevent the strike.

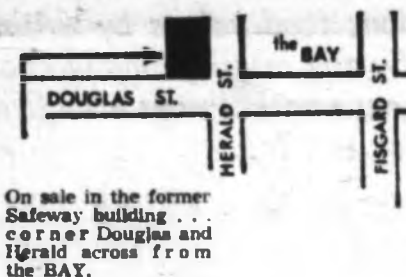

The federation said that the strike was authorized by Harry Bridges, international president of the International Longshore Workers Union, after approval by Canadian-area locals. The strike was to be in sympathy and support of Japanese dock workers who are seeking union security.

The federation said that the strike was planned for all Pacific coast ports in the U.S., Hawaii, Alaska and B.C. where ILWU labor was involved in the unloading or loading of Japanese flat vessels.

In Cyprus

Greeks Halt Castle Battle

NICOSIA (AP) — The Greek-Cypriot command ordered a cease-fire Wednesday in the mountain fighting for St. Hilarion Castle. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant followed up with an urgent appeal to both Greek and Turkish-Cypriots to renounce force in the Cyprus conflict.

With the Turks still in possession of the castle, a Turkish spokesman said the Greek cease-fire order sounded "like another Greek trick... we are suspicious of the peace."

Thant said the fighting for the tiny medieval castle in northern Cyprus had stopped and that the UN force on the eastern Mediterranean island would use all means short of bullets to keep it stopped.

Apparently answering criticism of failure of the UN force to intervene in the fighting, Thant said:

"It would be incongruous, even a little insane, for that force to set about killing Cypriots, whether Greek or Turkish, to prevent them from killing each other."

He sent UN commander, Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani, a comprehensive program to restore peace.

Canada Urges UN To Protect Turks

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Wednesday Canada has asked the United Nations the Cyprus peace-keeping force should take responsibility for protecting Turkish Cypriots on the island.

Bomb Kills Boy

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Grant Henderson, 19-year-old high school student, died Wednesday night from injuries suffered when a home-made bomb exploded in his hands Tuesday. (See earlier story, Page 35.)

250 Die In Sinking

DACCA (Reuters) — At least 250 persons were reported drowned when a motor vessel sank Wednesday night near Chandpur, East Pakistan, about 30 miles from here. The vessel was on its way to Chandpur from Dacca. The casualty toll was not immediately confirmed.

Spy Costs Sweden $56,000,000

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden Wednesday estimated it will cost $56,000,000 to reorganize its defence because of the damage done by confessed Soviet spy Stig Wennerstrom.

The government said it has initially decided to ask next year's Riksdag (parliament) for $10,000,000 to begin the work, expected to be finished by 1970 or 1971.

The communique said besides reorganizing the defence setup changes were planned in purchases of war materials already decided upon.

The communique came as a parliamentary report on Wennerstrom's activities disclosed the Swedish air force colonel claimed to have been made a Soviet major-general for his espionage activities.

$1,182,000 Loot In Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Latest reports indicate the loot in the Montreal March 31 mail truck robbery was $1,182,000.

Police say they now know there was $600,000 in cash and $582,000 in bonds in the bags.

Seven armed men stopped a truck, forced employees into another truck, and drove off with the mail truck.

Mid-Summer Start

ALL B.C. CARS FACING TESTS

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch is aiming at a midsummer target date for introduction of compulsory vehicle testing throughout the province.

Deputy motor vehicle superintendent Ray Hadfield said yesterday that plans to launch a mobile testing system in the province are in an advanced stage.

MVB officials are currently studying mobile equipment and procedures used by Ontario.

ONE DEPARTURE

Mr. Hadfield said there will be one important departure from Ontario practice in putting mobile testing to work in B.C.

This is that testing won't be voluntary.

Provision is already made in the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act for compulsory testing, Mr. Hadfield said.

FOREWARNED

Police in communities throughout the province will be forewarned of the visit of the mobile unit and will issue motorists with written instructions to have their vehicles tested.

Where defects are found, they will have to be repaired and rechecked.

MANY YEARS

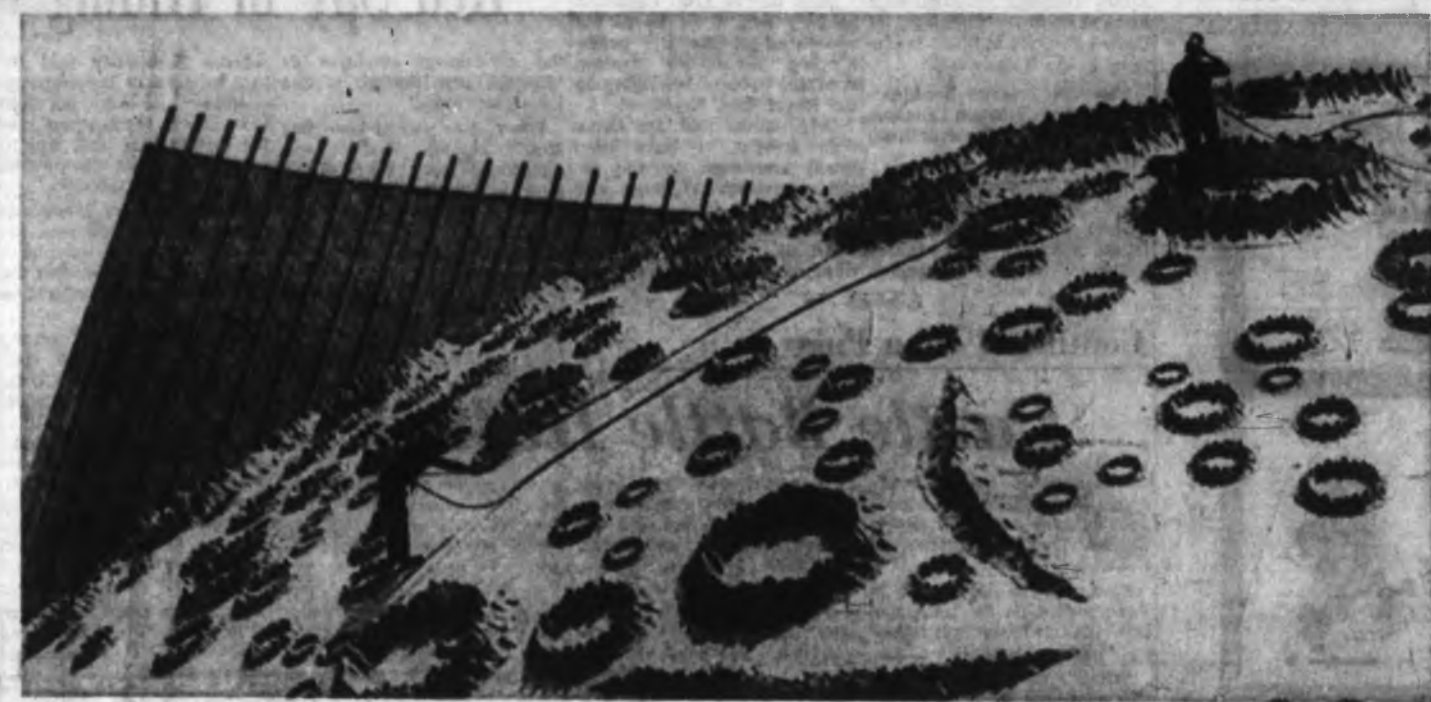

Compulsory vehicle inspection currently is practiced only in Vancouver where a municipal testing bureau has been in operation for many years.

The B.C. mobile unit will be equipped to test brakes, wheel alignment and lights.

Dissuaded?

Embassy Staff at Work

Newsman-Spy Still in Hiding

OTTAWA (CP) — Vasily Tarasov, Russian government journalist-spy under orders to leave Canada, remained cloistered

Wednesday in the Soviet Embassy here while travel arrangements were made for him.

The 35-year-old reporter for Izvestia, the official organ of the Russian government, had his visa cancelled Tuesday afternoon and was given 72 hours to get out of the country after he had been caught in an RCMP trap Monday evening.

Meanwhile, Russian embassy staff moved packing boxes out of the sparsely-furnished Tarasov apartment, where he had lived with his wife and six-year-old daughter since coming to Canada a year ago.

It appeared they would either accompany him or follow him immediately back to Moscow, probably travelling via Montreal and Paris or Copenhagen.

Tarasov was caught by the Mounties Monday evening with an incriminating batch of documents.

He obtained them after offering a civil servant a bribe.

The civil servant some time ago had become suspicious of the reason for Tarasov's warm hospitality and had tipped the RCMP.

They co-operated in setting the trap.

Both Sides Dig In In Vancouver Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — City and union dug their positions even deeper Wednesday in Vancouver's strike of 1,500 outside workers, fast becoming known as "the garbage strike."

Most uncollected refuse piled up in alleys and backyards, but some citizens had novel notions.

One chap left his garbage on the city hall steps, accidentally leaving a calling card in the form of a forgotten old licence plate.

A number of others made a quick stop on Lions Gate Bridge and heaved their bags into Vancouver harbor.

Wednesday it became clear the striking workers were adamant. They overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that their employers, street cleaners, and put with the city be put to binding arbitration. A union official said the secret-ballot vote showed only 13 of a total of more than 800 votes in favor of accepting arbitration.

City council suggested as an alternative the appointment of an industrial inquiry commission.

The commission would be required to make public its report and council would be upheld.

Garbage collectors, park employees, street cleaners, and various sewer, water, mechanical and electrical crews are asked to work at least 12 cents an hour more than their existing rate of $2.08.

The city has offered the same three-per-cent increase won earlier by inside workers.

'Welfare for Rich'

$40,000 to Millionaire To Improve the Breed

TORONTO (CP) — A New Democratic member of the legislature learned Wednesday that the government has made grants of almost $40,000 to sportman-industrialist E. P. Taylor during the last two years to encourage thoroughbred horse breeding.

In reply to a question by Ken Bryden (NDP—Woodbine), the government tabled in the legislature a list of the names of all those breeders who had received grants of more than $1,000 during 1962-63 and 1963-64. The matter came up in the house March 5, during consideration of the estimated expenditures for 1964-65 of the provincial treasurer's department. The estimates included $70,000 for grants to members of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society in Ontario.

Chinese Revive Border Charges

PEKING (Reuters) — The Chinese Communist party newspaper People's Daily revived border accusations against Russia Wednesday as it continued all-out attacks on the Soviet leaders for the third consecutive day.

The paper condemned the Soviet authorities for "surreptitious and subversive activities" against Sinkiang, the vast autonomous region in China's far west bordering Soviet central Asian republics.

Reporting a recent session of the regional people's congress in the Sinkiang capital of U-rumchi, it repeated charges that "in the past few years, the authorities of the Soviet Union... enticed and coerced tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into the Soviet Union and created trouble on the border."

The paper also charged that Russian authorities used press and radio in areas adjacent to Sinkiang to "spread lies and slanders attacking the Chinese Communist party leadership and to distort the history of Sinkiang in an attempt to undermine the unity of Chinese peoples of various nationalities."

MINORITY PEOPLES

Sinkiang is the home of several minority peoples, mostly Moslems. But large numbers of Chinese, mostly demobilized army men, having been settled there during the last 15 years.

Tofino Trouble Ending

Oh for Good Water!

By SUSIE McC. BIRD
TOFINO — Oh, to have a good drink of water once again!

The municipal water supply from Meares Island, about 1,500 feet away, was cut off on Good Friday when the tidal waves disrupted everything by washing the underwater pipes far and wide.

Now, however, a temporary hookup with Meares Island will be completed sometime this week, thanks to the efforts of Tofino village commissioners.

Fortunately, the commission led by chairman Thomas Gibson switched to an emergency water supply as soon as the line across the channel was put out of commission.

But the emergency water is so different from the good Meares Island liquid.

Everyone boils water before drinking, clothes become discolored and bathtubs grow black rims.

Qualified skindivers and experienced workmen have been hard at work for some time on permanent repairs. This will mean considerable cost due to the necessity of purchasing a lot of pipe and employing many men.

So Tofino taxpayers are hoping the community will be put on the disaster aid list. Otherwise, the cost will be terrific.

Red Shield Goal $6,000

PORT ALBERNI — The May-long Red Shield campaign of the Salvation Army in this district has an objective of $6,000 and will be highlighted by a residential blitz from 6 to 8 p.m., May 22.

Campaign chairman is Bill Russell, secretary is Jim Skinner and director is Capt. Peter Roeder. Headquarters at 106 Argyle has the phone number 3-6906.

Duncan Women Form Home Crisis Service

DUNCAN—An emergency service to help in time of household crisis has been formed by a group of Duncan women.

Mrs. H. R. Day, one of the directors of the new Duncan and District Emergency Service, said yesterday the service should be in full operation in about a year and added the first need is for volunteers.

The volunteer women, who will be trained, will instruct others in housecraft and child care in the event of family emergencies.

MANY FAMILIES

Mrs. Day said the service will ease difficult situations which arise in many families when mothers have to go to the hospital or recuperate from an illness.

Some pay may be provided for the emergency workers but the training will be on a volunteer basis.

The yearly membership fee is $1. It is hoped funds can be raised under the guidance of a man, preferably a retired businessman.

OFFICERS NAMED

The group's headquarters is the Margaret Moss Health Centre and the slate of officers is Mrs. B. Conolly, president; Mrs. O. Springford and Mrs. J. Lo-wood, vice-presidents; Mrs. H. Spencer, secretary, and Mrs. H. G. Bruce, treasurer.

Directors are Mrs. Day, Mrs. J. Van Dyke and Mrs. Ruth Mann.

The next meeting will be in the Moss health centre at 5 p.m. May 25.

Parksville Sets Tax Rate

PARKSVILLE—Village commissioners have set a tax rate of 20.78 mills for this year, up 1.34 mills from 1963.

The entire increase in the $143,011 budget is due to an increased school cost assessment, which accounts for 23.27 mills compared to 21.97 mills a year ago.

This is partly offset by a reduction in the hospital district assessment which is 1.51 mills compared to 1.97 mills in 1963.

The commissioners managed to hold the line on the taxation rate for general purposes which was set at 15 mills, the same as 1963.

Duncan Road-eo Sets Big Dates

DUNCAN—The annual safe driving road-eo for young people will be held on the Safeway parking lot Sunday, May 10. Jaycee road-eo chairman Jens Wolf said yesterday.

Deadline for entries is May 8 and anyone interested should contact Mr. Wolf at 746-5045. First test runs will take place on the lot at 1:30 p.m. this coming Sunday.

TWO TESTS SET

On the big day, written tests will take place at 10 a.m. in the adjacent shopping plaza and driving tests will begin at 1:15 p.m.

The winner will go on to the provincial finals and could continue to the national finals this summer. Contestants must be under 20 as of July 10 and can win the national prizes of a scholarship for first place, $750 for second and $500 for third.

Mr. Wolf said the Jaycees hope to at least match last year's total of 15 entrants.

Beach Battle

Two-Week Cool Off Suggested

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Recreation Minister Kiernan yesterday called for a two-week cooling-off period in the boiling Botanical Beach controversy before he tries to solve the public access problem.

Kiernan

Poisons the Water

Victoria University biology head Gordon Fields said bark dropping from the logs settles on the sea bottom and poisons the water.

Provincial museum director Clifford Carl agreed. A booming ground near the beach "would be very destructive," he told the Colonist.

Dr. Fields said the threatened destruction of marine life was "shocking."

He recalled that in 1960 a group of International Botanical Year scientists assembled at the beach from all over the world.

The marine garden at the beach was the first biological station on the west coast, he said, and became the subject of a two-volume treatise by U.S. university researchers.

Mr. Kiernan confirmed that a previous owner of the land around the beach, A. G. Manzer & Sons Ltd., had offered the property to the province for park purposes in 1962.

"But there was nothing philanthropic in the gesture," he said.

The Manner interests had bought 571 acres in the area in 1956 at an average price of $87 an acre and in 1962 offered 16 acres to the province for more than $1,000 an acre, he said.

"There was certainly no benevolence in the offer to the department in 1962."

While the 16-acre slice around Botanical Beach was being offered to the government for $22,000 it was simultaneously offered to UBC for $16,000 the minister recalled.

"The department took a dim view of being offered the land at one price while it was being offered elsewhere for less," he added.

He said a timber swap proposal whereby B.C. would have got the beach property in return for timber granted elsewhere had involved "an excessive asking price in terms of timber."

Government Powerless

It might be unfortunate that a booming ground licence had been granted in waters adjacent to the beach, he continued, but the government was now powerless to stop the present owners from going ahead with logging and booming plans.

He pointed out that a forest reserve in the name of his department protects the beach itself from direct ravages of industry.

Officials of his department were investigating the status of a road through the property but doubted that it had ever been gazetted.

It was built by the army during the Second World War and probably had no official status at all.

The present owner of the property, Cefir Forest Products Ltd., has posted "no trespassing" signs throughout the area. Rudolph Witschi, a principal in the company, said the land was posted after the public tampered with the firm's property.

Mr. Witschi threatened court action against the Colonist's outdoors editor if he continued to invite the public to visit the area through his land.

He claimed ownership to the land and Botanical Beach too. But lands department records showed that the beach is covered by the crown reserve.

The booming ground permit was granted last March 6 and has almost two years to run.

A lands official said the size of the leased land area was cut in half from the original application.

But, he admitted, the recreation and conservation department had not been asked to approve the lease before it was granted.

The crown foreshore reserve along the beach extends for a third of a mile.

Trail into Botanical Beach, three miles from Port Renfrew, is rugged, difficult to find, but with care even the youngsters can make it. This group took an hour and a half to walk it. 'I Won't Close Beach'

Neighbor to Keep Land for Posterity

By TED GASKELL

A Victoria woman who owns nearly 700 feet of beach front property on Botanical Beach is determined that her land will be kept for public use.

Mrs. James H. Beatty, 1009 Terrace, owner of four acres of land on Botanical Beach, told the Colonist yesterday she intends to keep the land in her family, "for posterity."

She added that if she ever thought of selling, it would be to the university.

Mrs. Beatty was commenting on the threatened closure of the property by the owner of adjacent land as disclosed in a story in yesterday's Colonist.

Mrs. Beatty's former husband, the late James I. Mutter, bought the land from Dr. Josephine Tilden, in 1948.

Fire Hits Garage

While out burning an unwanted garage last night Sidney Volunteer Fire Department ended up at a real fire which all but demolished a wanted garage at 10182 Third Street.

Mrs. Hilda Melville and her son sprayed the wall of their garage before burning nearby brush but forgot to wet the roof.

The fire got into the garage. A dinghy, two mowers and a tiller were demolished.

The beach has never been closed to the public and the people of Port Renfrew have used it as a park for 40 to 50 years said Mrs. Beatty.

She has checked with the lands department and finds that there is no question of ownership and now the department is looking into access to the property.

Since the story appeared, the Colonist has been inundated with telephone calls from people protesting the closure of the beach.

Mrs. W. G. Smith of 1525 Amelia, said she was "appalled at the terrible news" and offered help if any organization is formed to prevent the closure.

"If we put up a fight, we might prevent it," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Macdonald, 4784 Interurban, are both "furious" that it should be possible for a beach to be closed.

"We feel that public access through easement should be in the terms of sale of such land," they said.

"We don't think this sort of thing (the closure) should be allowed. The major logging companies open their land to the public. Why should a small company try to close off the beach?"

"This man is only one taxpayer. We are hundreds of thousands."

Tom Gore, 17, of 862 Somerset, said that a group of students from Oak Bay and

Mount View High Schools are so concerned about the beach closure that they are starting a petition to be sent to the government.

Students interested in photography, biology and cave hunting are concerned, he said.

Allan Rites Saturday In Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — Funeral services will be held in All Saints' Anglican Church at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for William Charles Allan, who died in hospital yesterday at 76.

A native of South Wales, he was a miner in Alberta for many years before coming here in 1945. Survivors include his son Walter, head of the big Port Alberni IWA local.

Gardeners Plan Sunday Visit

Members of Gordon Head Garden Club will meet at 1233 Palmer Road at 2 p.m. Sunday to view the rock garden of V. W. Ahler. Following this a visit will be made to the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lohbrunner, 1101 Lohbrunner Road.

On Monday the club will meet at 8 p.m. in the Community Hall, Tyndall Avenue, when W. J. Fynn will speak on Dahlias and Anemones.

Parks, Play

Voting May 26 In Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — A special city council meeting will be held tonight to confirm Tuesday, May 26, as the date for a vote on a $175,000 bylaw to finance improvements in parks and recreation facilities.

The bylaw would include $32,000 for development of Tenth Avenue Park, $8,270 for a swimming pool filter plant and $26,000 for arena improvements, including a floor.

Ald. Garnet Reynolds, head of the parks and recreation commission, said some people to whom he had been talking did not consider the bylaw large enough.

INDOOR POOL

Some wanted an indoor swimming pool to be included in the program.

"We consider this a multi-purpose bylaw," he said. "We do not think it is all the community needs, but we think it's adequate for the next year or two. We are trying to put into shape the order the facilities we have now."

NANAIMO VOTE

In Nanaimo, the vote on the $400,000 Commercial Inlet development project will take place Thursday, May 14.

Property owners in the special assessment area which is to benefit from the scheme will say whether they like the idea.

Nanaimo Court

Hit-Run Case Thrown Out

NANAIMO — A hit-and-run case was thrown out of magistrate's court Wednesday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts, who ruled the charge should never have been laid.

Donald Alvin Geisler, 577 Bradley, admitted he left the scene of an accident last Dec. 24, but said the car he struck was unoccupied and his wife was injured.

HOME INSTEAD

He said he started to drive her to hospital and went home instead when her condition improved. He notified the RCMP early the next day.

He said he swerved to avoid hitting a dog and collided with a car parked on Selby Street.

"The intentions of the RCMP were good," said the magistrate. "I can't say I blame him too much for trying to get his wife to the hospital, though."

Slide Idea

Ferries Could 'Pre-Sell'

NANAIMO — Ferry systems operating out of Vancouver Island ports will be asked to allow on their ships a new method of promoting the Island's beauty spots.

The executive of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island decided yesterday to write to the B.C. Ferry Authority, CPR and Black Ball Ferries asking "serious consideration" of the idea.

BIGGEST PROBLEM

Slides would be shown to tourists on ferries as they travel to the Island from the mainland and Richard Bond of the Nanaimo chamber said these "pre-sell" slides might help solve the Island's biggest tourist problem — drawing visitors to the northern end.

Mr. Bond also disclosed the junior achievement program, which has taught students in other parts of B.C. about the free enterprise system, will be introduced in Nanaimo high schools in October.

WOODEN BASTION

Students will form a corporation, sell shares and manufacture a product. Mr. Bond said the students are contemplating a wooden bastion as their product.

ACCVI executive members agreed the new federal advisory committee on salt water sport fishing in B.C. will have an excellent effect on the future of such fishing.

Fisheries committee chairman Robert Wright of Victoria said the committee would forward recommendations to Ottawa on regulations for sports fishermen.

Farm Co-op Big Success

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — More than 400 farmers in districts surrounding Nanaimo are shareholders in a farm co-operative which is recognized as one of the most successful in B.C.

For $3 a share local farmers are entitled to buy feed and seed, and share in a patronage benefit which is calculated according to the value of the farmer's purchases throughout the year.

DIVIDEND HIGH

The dividend for 1963 was 10 per cent and has climbed as high as 12 per cent, says Ronald Morley, manager of the Nanaimo Farmers Co-op. He said the dividends returned to farmers from other co-ops in B.C. are usually two or three per cent less.

Two bulk trucks deliver locally-manufactured feed from Cobble Hill to Courtenay and Port Alberni. The feed is composed of wheat, oats, barley and more than 20 nutrients. The grains are purchased mainly in the Peace River area.

HAMMER MILL

The feed is mixed in three different proportions for cattle, turkeys and chickens after the grains are ground in a hammer mill at the plant situated at 575 Milton Street. The co-op has been in operation for 31 years and is owned entirely by the farmer-shareholders.

Greeks Reopen Castle Battle

NICOSIA (UPI) — Greek Cypriots broke their own cease-fire today and resumed mortar fire at St. Hilarion Castle, a UN spokesman announced.

NICOSIA (AP) — The Greek-Cypriot command ordered a cease-fire Wednesday in the mountain fighting for St. Hilarion Castle. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant followed up with an urgent appeal to both Greek and Turkish-Cypriots to renounce force in the Cyprus conflict.

With the Turks still in possession of the castle, a Turkish spokesman said the Greek cease-fire order sounded "like another Greek trick... we are suspicious of the peace."

Apparently answering criticism of failure of the UN force to intervene in the fighting, Thant said:

"It would be incongruous, even a little insane, for that force to set about killing Cypriots, whether Greek or Turkish, to prevent them from killing each other."

He sent UN commander, Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani, a comprehensive program to restore

Soviet Major-General, Too

Spy Costs Sweden $56,000,000

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden Wednesday estimated it will cost $56,000,000 to reorganize its defences because of the damage done by confessed Soviet spy Stig Wennerstrom.

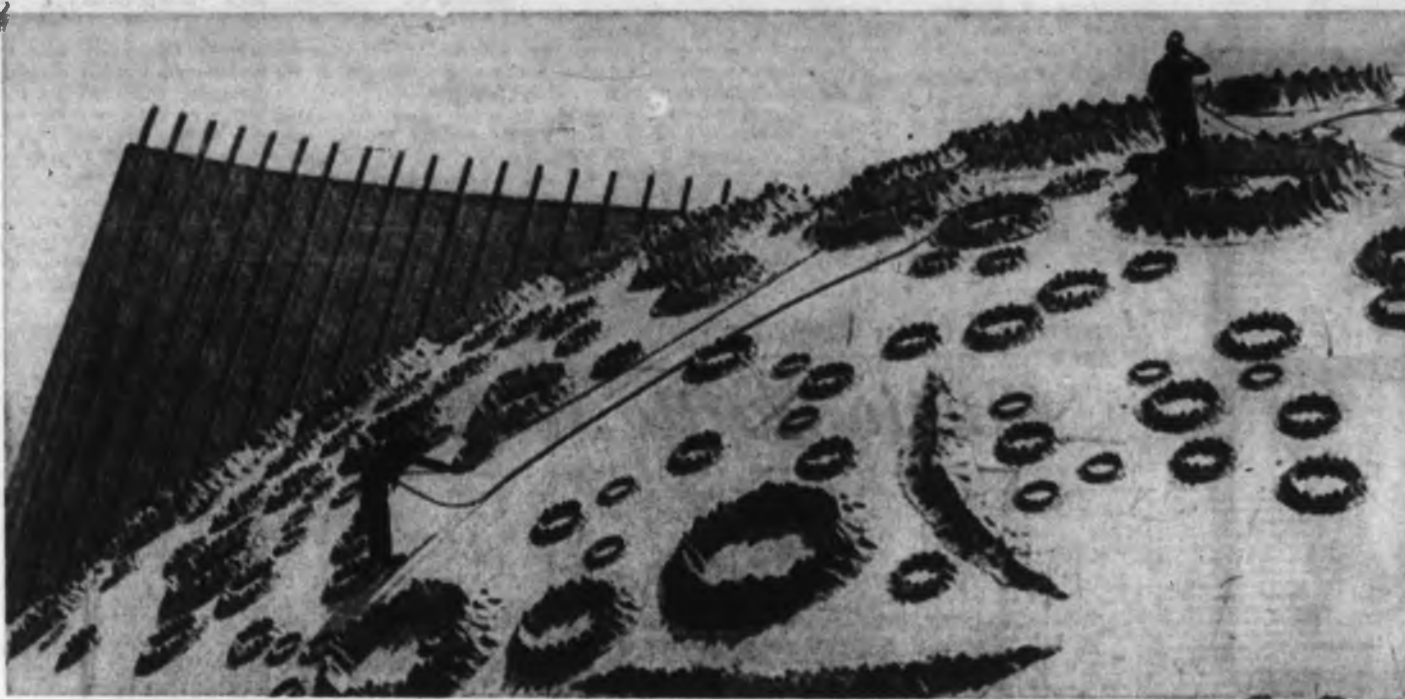

The government said it has initially decided to ask next year's Riksdag (parliament) for $10,000,000 to begin the work, expected to be finished by 1970 or 1971.

The communique said besides reorganizing the defence setup changes were planned in purchases of war materials already decided upon.

The communique came as a parliamentary report on Wennerstrom's activities disclosed the Swedish air force colonel claimed to have been made a Soviet major-general for his espionage activities.

250 Die In Sinking

DACCA (Reuters) — At least 250 persons were reported drowned when a motor vessel sank Wednesday night near Chandpur, East Pakistan, about 30 miles from here. The vessel was on its way to Chandpur from Dacca. The casualty toll was not immediately confirmed.

Embassy Staff at Work

Newsman-Spy Still in Hiding

OTTAWA (CP) — Vasily Tarasov, Russian government journalist-spy under orders to leave Canada, remained cloistered

Wednesday in the Soviet Embassy here while travel arrangements were made for him.

The 36-year-old reporter for Izvestia, the official organ of the Russian government, had his visa cancelled Tuesday afternoon and was given 72 hours to get out of the country after he had been caught in an RCMP trap Monday evening.

Meanwhile, Russian embassy staff moved packing boxes out of the sparsely-furnished Tarasov apartment, where he had lived with his wife and six-year-old daughter since coming to Canada a year ago.

It appeared they would either accompany him or follow him immediately back to Moscow, probably travelling via Montreal and Paris or Copenhagen.

Tarasov was caught by the Mounties Monday evening with an incriminating batch of documents.

He obtained them after offering a civil servant a bribe.

The civil servant some time ago had become suspicious of the reason for Tarasov's warm hospitality and had tipped the RCMP.

They co-operated in setting the trap.

ant and the nature of the industrial secrets involved are a close government secret.

Peterson May Step In In Vancouver Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor Minister Peterson indicated late last night he may step in and attempt to settle Vancouver's so-called "garbage" strike if there is no sign of a break soon.

VANCOUVER (CP) — City and union dug their positions even deeper Wednesday in Vancouver's strike of 1,500 outside workers, fast becoming known as "the garbage strike."

Most uncollected refuse piled up in alleys and backyards, but some citizens had novel notions.

One chap left his garbage on the city hall steps, accidentally leaving a calling card in the form of a forgotten old licence plate.

A number of others made a quick stop on Lions Gate Bridge and heaved their bags into Vancouver harbor.

Wednesday it became clear the striking workers were adamant. They overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that their dispute with the city be put to binding arbitration. A union official said the secret-ballot vote showed only 13 of a total of more than 800 votes in favor of accepting arbitration.

City council suggested as an alternative the appointment of an industrial inquiry commission.

Garbage collectors, park employees, street cleaners, and various sewer, water, mechanical and electrical crews are asking at least 12 cents an hour more than their existing rate of $2.00. The city has offered the same three-per-cent increase won earlier by inside workers.

'Welfare for Rich'

$40,000 to Millionaire To Improve the Breed

TORONTO (CP) — A New Democratic member of the legislature learned Wednesday that the government has made grants of almost $40,000 to sportsman-industrialist E. P. Taylor during the last two years to encourage thoroughbred horse-breeding.

In reply to a question by Ken Bryden (NDP—Woodbine), the government tabled in the legislature a list of the names of all those breeders who had received grants of more than $1,000 during 1962-63 and 1963-64.

The matter came up in the house March 5, during consideration of the estimated expenditures for 1964-65 of the provincial treasurer's department. The estimates included $70,000 for grants to members of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society in Ontario.

Provincial Treasurer Allan

said the government makes grants to Ontario breeders on the basis of five per cent of the purses won on Ontario tracks by horses bred by them. The money did not go to the owners.

Last year 160 breeders benefited from the grants, Mr. Allan said. Most of these were not wealthy persons, but "small people."

In the tabled list was an amount of $18,956 awarded Mr. Taylor for the year ended March 31, 1963 and $20,956 for the year ended March 31, 1964. In a statement issued outside of the legislature, Mr. Bryden said the list showed that the grants were "really little more than a system of welfare allowances for rich men."

The grants should be either discontinued or the method of distribution should be completely overhauled, he said.

The B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch is aiming at a midsummer target date for introduction of compulsory vehicle testing throughout the province.

Deputy motor vehicle superintendent Ray Hadfield said yesterday that plans to launch a mobile testing system in the province are in an advanced stage.

MVB officials are currently studying mobile equipment and procedures used by Ontario.

ONE DEPARTURE

Mr. Hadfield said there will be one important departure from Ontario practice in putting mobile testing to work in B.C.

This is that testing won't be voluntary.

Provision is already made in the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act for compulsory testing. Mr. Hadfield said.

FOREWARNED

Police in communities throughout the province will be forewarned of the visit of the mobile unit and will issue motorists with written instructions to have their vehicles tested.

Where defects are found, they will have to be repaired and rechecked.

MANY YEARS

Compulsory vehicle inspection currently is practised only in Vancouver where a municipal testing bureau has been in operation for many years.

Chinese Revive Border Charges

The paper condemned the Soviet authorities for "surreptitious and subversive activities" against Sinkiang, the vast autonomous region in China's far west bordering Soviet central Asian republics.

Reporting a recent session of the regional people's congress in the Sinkiang capital of Urumchi, it repeated charges that "in the past few years, the authorities of the Soviet Union... enticed and coerced tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into the Soviet Union and created trouble on the border."

The paper also charged that Russian authorities used press and radio in areas adjacent to Sinkiang to "spread lies and slanders attacking the Chinese Communist party leadership and to distort the history of Sinkiang in an attempt to undermine the unity of Chinese peoples of various nationalities."

MINORITY PEOPLES

Sinkiang is the home of several minority peoples, mostly Moslems. But large numbers of Chinese, mostly demobilized army men, having been settled there during the last 15 years.
